Red River Threatens Southern Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Red River continued to edge higher Wednesday and some flooding appeared certain along its banks in Southern Manitoba.

The provincial flood control committee was meeting in an effort to determine how wide an area may be affected.

Agriculture Minister George Hutton gave the legislature revised estimates indicating a crest can be expected at Emerson, on the North Dakota border, April 22, and at Morris, 30 miles north, the following day. In both places, he said, predictions are the Red will top its banks by five feet.

At Winnipeg, he said, the peak can be expected April 24 at 24 feet. This is only 2 1/2 feet from the top of the elaborate system of dikes protecting the city.

Earlier forecasts had predicted a 10-foot peak. In the disastrous floods of 1950, the Red reached 30 feet.

The river, swollen by runoff from the south, topped 15 feet Wednesday—a rise of three feet since the previous day.

DEATH SPURS HUNT

Suspect Spears

KELOWNA (CP)—Police have appealed for public help in tracking down murder suspect Russell Spears.

An RCMP spokesman said Spears, suspected of gunning down Const. N. M. Bruce Saturday morning, could be anywhere in Canada or the northwestern United States.

More men were being moved into the remote Black Canyon area to search for the fugitive and two more tracking dogs were sent in to help one that had been searching since Saturday.

The capital murder warrant held by RCMP for Spear's arrest was sworn out after Const. Bruce died early Wednesday of a bullet through the right lung.

EXPERT WOODSMAN

RCMP described Spears, 50, as about 130 pounds, five-foot-four, with graying brown hair and hazel eyes, a very wrinkled face and bullet scars on both legs.

He is an experienced woodsman, and is believed armed.

RCMP said he may have headed south for Washington or Idaho, which he could reach by less mountainous routes, and which have large cities into which he could disappear.

They said they have turned up no sign of Spears since Saturday morning.

Const. Bruce, 26, was shot from close range as he approached a clapboard cabin on Power Creek, near Kelowna, in answer to a report that a girl was being detained against her will.

Beverly Charest, 17, burst out of the cabin just after Const. Bruce was shot. She had bullet wounds to her shoulder and jaw.

FLED INTO BUSH

Spears has been the object of an intensive hunt of the Powers Creek and Black Canyon area since Saturday, when a man was seen to flee into the bush after the shooting.

Const. Bruce, a native of Fredrickton, was married and had two small children.

RCMP said the chain of events started when Miss Charest went to the cabin with a man who approached her parents and told them he was looking for a house-keeper.

Const. Bruce went to the cabin with Const. D. E. Jones when they were told the girl was being detained against her will.

CLOSE RANGE

As they approached, Const. Bruce was shot from close range, and Miss Charest was shot as she burst out of the cabin.

Const. Jones took cover behind a tree, then returned to the patrol car to summon reinforcements, and the gunman fled into the woods.

Const. Bruce is the fourth RCMP officer to be shot down on duty in B.C. in three years.

U.S. Policy in Viet Nam 'Winning Wider Support'

LONDON (AP)—Michael Stewart, Britain's foreign secretary, said Wednesday United States policy evolving in Viet Nam has been winning ever wider support, even among the doubters.

Speaking to 300 correspondents and diplomats at a foreign press association luncheon, Stewart said a speech by U.S. President Johnson April 7 made clear "the government of the United States is prepared to enter into any discussion in any form at any place and without preconditions."

RESPONSIBILITY

"The responsibility for the next move now does lie on the other (Communist) side in this dispute," he added.

Stewart left the impression he expects the Soviet Union to join Britain—as co-chairmen of the 1954 Indo-Chinese peace settlement—in the quest for peace.

KEENER IN PRIVATE?

He was asked by a correspondent whether he thought the Russians were keener in private to help end the Viet Nam war than they were willing to admit in public.

"The Russians are not prepared to act with Britain as co-chairmen on certain initiatives," Stewart replied. "But I see hope in the fact that they take the view that the co-chairman system still is valid."

Blast Rips Compound

SAIGON (AP)—An explosion ripped through an ammunition storage area Wednesday night at the U.S. Army 117th Aviation Company compound in Qui Nhon.

There were no casualties, the spokesman said, but six cases of rockets were destroyed and four helicopters, two trucks and one tank were damaged.

Night Air Strike Burns Red Convoy

From Reuters-AP

SAIGON (CP)—South Vietnamese fighter bombers carried out the first night air strike against North Viet Nam Wednesday night.

Vietnamese Skyraiders attacked a military convoy north of the border between South and North Viet Nam after the convoy opened fire on them.

LIGHTS OUT

The aircraft then flew northward as far as Dong Hoi, about 80 miles north of the border. Pilots reported the city's lights had been turned out, apparently as a precaution against the air raids.

The Vietnamese aircraft then returned to base without further military action.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Air Force varied its attacks on the north Wednesday with a propaganda raid in effect calling on the North Vietnamese to overthrow their Communist government.

While 30 planes attacked two radar stations, six others scattered 3,000,000 leaflets blaming

Single Survivor

Airliner Crash Kills 26 in Fog

JERSEY, Channel Islands (Reuters)—A British DC3 airliner crashed, killing 26 of the 27 persons aboard, as it came in Wednesday night to land in thick fog here.

The lone survivor was a French stewardess, Dominique Silliere, 23, found by rescuers with both legs broken.

SIX BRITONS

The plane carried 23 passengers and a crew of four.

The plane was flying to Jersey from Paris and most of its passengers were believed to be French, Italian, Spanish and Portuguese citizens travelling there for agricultural work. A report from Paris said six Britons also were passengers.

The disaster was the first fatal commercial crash on Jersey in 26 years.

The twin-engine aircraft of Jersey Airlines—an affiliate of British United Airways—hit trees in thick fog and plunged in flames on to a newly-planted field of potatoes about half-a-mile from the St. Helier Airport runway.

Two women who ran from nearby houses pulled the stewardess from the wreckage. She was taken to the hospital where she underwent an emergency operation.

Flurry Over Curry

Fingers in Bowl Unfamiliar

LONDON (AP)—Robert Prigg sat back and rubbed his hands in anticipation as the Indian waiter laid a steaming plate of curry and rice before him.

Just as he was about to eat his first forkful, a man walked over from an adjoining table and said:

"Look, mate, you're doing this all wrong. You should take a drink of water first, and then pour the rice on the curry."

"I beg your pardon," said Prigg.

"Yes," said William Fleming, a former sailor in the Royal Navy. "I've served in the East. I know all about curry." He reached down, stirred up Prigg's curry and risked with his fingers and said:

"Now drink your water and go ahead."

"Are you quite finished?" asked Prigg, 24.

"Yes, I have," said the expert.

Prigg picked up his heaping dish and slammed it into Fleming's face.

Blinded by curry and rice, Fleming staggered out of the Taj Mahal restaurant, wiped his face, returned to the restaurant, picked up a chair and hit Prigg over the head.

"My pride wouldn't take it," Fleming told a magistrate Wednesday. "He ate it wrong and then pushed the stuff in my face. Of course, it was all so very unnecessary and I'm sorry about it."

The magistrate fined Fleming $8, 3s ($24.04).

At London's Veeraswamy Indian restaurant, which claims to cook the best curry this side of Suez, a spokesman said:

"We serve the rice first and pour the curry over it. Normally we use spoons and forks, but it's quite normal practice to use fingers. However, they should be your own fingers."

Russian Scheme Suspected

Viet Nam Widening Moscow-Peking Rift

LONDON (UPI) — Diplomatic reports reaching here Wednesday said the rift between Soviet Russia and Communist China has widened as a result of the Viet Nam war.

The reports said Peking suspects Moscow is scheming to establish a firm foothold in Communist North Viet Nam under cover of military aid to the Hanoi government of Ho Chi Minh.

The reports said the Red Chinese are keeping close watch on Soviet arms shipments to North Viet Nam for fear that experts and military technicians might accompany them and establish a Soviet presence in Hanoi.

Russians proceeding to North Viet Nam via mainland China were understood confined to flights on specified routes and by night, apparently as a precaution against "spying," the reports said.

According to the authoritative reports, relations between Peking and Moscow were "almost hostile" in regard to everything concerning the situation in Viet Nam.

Communist China, after prolonged negotiations, finally allowed Russian arms supplies.

Cold Welcome For Hanoi Peace Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Viet Nam's four-point peace plan got a cold reception in Washington Wednesday on the grounds it would mean a Communist take-over of South Viet Nam.

Although avoiding an outright rejection, a state department spokesman said of Hanoi's broadcast proposal for U.S. withdrawal from South Viet Nam and "peaceful reunification of Viet Nam."

"We are studying the reports... as indeed we study all reports of statements by the North Vietnamese..."

The spokesman, press officer Robert J. McCloskey, again prodded the Communists for an answer to the appeal by 17 neutralist countries for no preconditions peace talks on Viet Nam. He noted President Johnson gave the U.S. response in an April 7 speech offering unconditional discussions.

'Professionals at Top'

NEW YORK (CP) — Prime Minister Wilson said Wednesday the central theme and day night the mobilization of the central purpose of the Labor Britain's economy "to meet the challenge of the modern world."

"We have carried through war on poverty in underdeveloped areas of the Commonwealth and elsewhere."

Addressing the Economic Club of New York, Wilson described government action to strengthen those sectors of the economy which are essential both for increasing exports and for avoiding internal strain.

MEETS JOHNSON

The prime minister, who arrived here early Wednesday, meets today in Washington with President Johnson, with the Vietnamese crisis expected to be at the top of the agenda.

Wilson reassured his audience that Britain will not devalue the pound sterling. He said that if the Labor government had planned to devalue the pound it would have done so immediately after winning the election last October.

He said Britain hopes to eliminate its balance of payments deficit by next year.

MOBILIZE TALENTS

The central thread of Labor policy, said the prime minister, "is our plan to mobilize the talents of our scientists and technicians, redeployed from missiles and warheads, on research and development contracts, civil research and development to produce the new instruments and tools of economic advance both for Britain and for the

Water Wealth

IN ONLY FIFTEEN years, according to estimates cited at a meeting of the Pacific Northwest Trade Association in Portland, the United States will need every drop of the fresh water available to it from conventional sources within its boundaries. By the end of the century, 35 years hence, the daily requirement is expected to grow to 880 billion gallons—350 billion gallons more than the natural supply.

How the deficiency will be made up is of extraordinary interest and importance to British Columbia. One possible answer is de-salting of sea water, if the process on immense scale can be made sufficiently inexpensive. With this single barrier, the oceans offer an infinite supply. But though the United States is pressing the search for cheaper desalination, the price is still far greater than industry and agriculture generally can afford to pay, and time is running short.

The prospect therefore is that this province will increasingly find covetous eyes fixed upon its tremendous wealth of fresh water, and before many years have passed may be exporting this precious commodity southward on virtually a seller's market.

But first British Columbia must look to its own future needs and those of the rest of Canada, particularly the Prairies although it is conceivable that water from B.C. may one day flow into the great Lakes-St. Lawrence system.

Oregon, concerned about the possibility of Pacific Northwest water being diverted to the thirsty (and in the case of California and Arizona, politically powerful) Pacific Southwest states, is pushing forward a study of its own "ultimate" water needs—not just in 10 or 20 years, but at least 100 years hence.

At this point it seems almost absurd to believe that British Columbia will ever need all of its vast supply of water. But the ready availability of this resource will always be a magnet for development within the province, especially as shortages occur and costs climb elsewhere.

Before British Columbia diverts water for export on any significant scale, it should make the most intense and imaginative examination of its own potentialities far into the future.

No Need to Worry

IT IS JUST as well that Russian radio-astronomers have backed down on their claim to have found proof of the existence of intelligent life on another planet. Apart from a handful of scientists and several million space-fiction buffs the world isn't ready for such a discovery at this time.

If "a super-civilization" had indeed been found somewhere in the far reaches of outer space as Soviet astronomers Kardashev, Sholomitsky and Shklovsky seemed to believe, we Earthlings would have too many changes to make in order to cope with the situation.

Certainly if contact had been established between us and the men from planet CTA-102 the impact of such an accomplishment would have had terrible repercussions.

One need only recall how Columbus' discovery of the new world so radically changed the old, or how the seemingly set course of history was altered with the opening up of Africa and the Orient to realize what it might have meant.

For instance, we would not know whether the other planet had peaceful or warlike intentions toward us. If CTA-102 were, as was claimed by the Soviet scientists, a "super-civilization" then obviously it would be a peace-loving world not intent upon destroying ours. Therefore it would have been in our best interests not to have revealed ourselves to it for what we actually are—several groups of warring savages battling for world domination—if we desired to create a good impression.

On the other hand CTA-102 may have had evil designs upon us. In which case we would have had to stop fighting among ourselves to concentrate on the bigger and better task of defending our world against outside aggression.

However, now that the Russian scientists have admitted that they may have been mistaken about the whole thing and that the radio signals they heard probably had no special significance, we have nothing to worry about. We will happily be able to continue our battles with our fellow men secure in the knowledge that there will be no outside interference.

Nothing to worry about at all...

Where Is Safe?

THE robbery of a safety deposit vault in a bank in Montreal has brought out the point that will be a surprise to a great many people, that valuables deposited in such places are not automatically covered by insurance.

It appears that many of the Montreal people who used this vault have lost securities and other valuables, some of which may not be replaceable. Some are very annoyed, but they have really only themselves to blame for they cannot have read the fine print of their agreement with the bank.

Because the banks have no idea what their customers are depositing in their boxes, and have themselves no access to them, it would be almost impossible to provide a form of insurance that might be adequate to meet the collective needs.

For instance, one depositor might be loaded with $200,000,000 worth of valuables, while another might not hold more than $500,000.

The bank's argument therefore is probably sound, but it does seem only right that customers should be more fully acquainted with the facts than apparently is the case.

As the banks have established high minimum standards of protection against fire and theft in their safety vaults, it could be asked if there is a safer place in the world to put valuables, and an affirmative answer might be difficult to obtain.

But despite all their precautions, things can happen such as happened in Montreal, and those who want to be absolutely safe have the recourse of covering themselves with their own insurance.

In view of the extreme improbability of loss in a bank safety vault insurance rates on this coverage are low, and persons who use their banks as safes for valuables which are negotiable would probably be well advised to take this precautionary action. It can be effected either as part of the person's ordinary home insurance or as a special policy.

Ottawa Offbeat

A Catch in the Legislation

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

FOR exactly a year, some of the honorable members of the Commons have been worrying—but not much—about their phone bills.

And so, too, with good reason, has the phone company. Probably plenty.

For some of those bills—no body, except the phone company, knows how many—were not being paid.

What's more, one of the members, ex-convict fire Creditist deputy Gilles Giguere, who runs up an unpaid account of some-thing more than $800, boasted quite openly that he simply wasn't going to pay it.

He went so far, he has been quite frank to relate, as to ring up a vice-president of the phone company and tell him, "go ahead, cut the wire; you're not going to get a nickel out of me."

Of course, there was no wire snipping.

Not just because Gilles Giguere has acquired something of a tough-guy reputation, having haled the RCMP high command before a parliamentary committee for "illegally" arresting him in English when he would have been perfectly happy to answer some blithely ignored traffic charges, but probably more likely because the phone company, wisely, figured it might be tempting fate—and a blast in the House of Commons—to cut off an MP's phone service.

So, sagely, the phone company waited and waited, day after week after month for a year.

And then—jackpot.

The money dam broke and in rolled a flood of cheques, one of them, Creditist Leader Real Caouette's, for just under $1,000.

There were others, although just how many, the phone company, cautiously, isn't saying.

But at last accounting, which was three months after the honorable members had declared their moratorium on paying phone bills, eight MPs had publicly confessed to refusing to settle accounts variously amounting to $130.95, $137.15, $160.55, $65.50, $86.50, $457.65, $412.35 and $66.70.

That was last July.

And how the bills since must have mounted was indicated by Real Caouette when, with a shudder, of financial pain the other day, he disclosed he had written a cheque "for not much less than $1,000."

Take the average of those eight bills—it was $130 for the three months—multiply by four for the year's account, and you get $760.

Now suppose every MP in the House had refused to pay his bill—they all didn't, of course—the phone company would have had an unpaid tab of $201,400.

And it wasn't just the Creditists who were telling the phone company to whistle for its money—Liberals, Conservatives, New Democrats and Socialists were members in good standing of the Parliamentary Won't Pay Club.

They finally paid, out of what Real Caouette says was self-defence, as the bills climbed so frightfully high and toward what ultimately might have been financially crippling levels.

How did it happen that these honorable members came to consider themselves as immune to bills and able with impunity to dare the phone company to cut them off?

By way of a little-read and too-late-understood clause in the parliamentary pay-increase legislation providing for more generous travelling and other expenses.

There was a scant-noticed catch in it.

Telecommunications expenses, as they were termed, were to be paid "as the respective Houses (Commons and Senate) may prescribe for their members."

And neither House so far has so prescribed.

Until they do, long distance phone bills, it has been ruled by the powerful joint parliamentary internal economy committee, "remain the personal debt and charge of the individual member concerned and not the responsibility of the Treasury."

But before you stand up and cheer and joyously cry that it's good enough for them—consider this.

Many, in fact a great many long distance phone calls to an MP, front and backbencher alike, come collect.

And because, essentially, an MP is basically in the business of helping those people who elected him and sent him to Ottawa to watch their interests, he gets an awful lot of calls collect and can be confronted with some pretty formidable bills.

Like Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson's which runs to better than $2,000 a year, or Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker's at something more than $3,000.

It makes a pretty big hole in a parliamentary cheque and perhaps, as a working necessity in any MP's discharge of public business, should be paid by the Treasury.

Meaning, at some quiet moment during the celebrations in Jakarta, China and Indonesia are expected to begin co-operation aimed at excluding Soviet Russia and Malaysia from the second Afro-Asian conference to be held in Algiers in June.

Nor do his current actions match the pledge of his 1955 prime minister, Dr. Sukarnopriyo, "to live in neighborhood fashion together, irrespective of each other's political, social, or religious ideologies, on principles of mutual respect for each other's national sovereignty and territorial integrity."

Now a main Sukarno aim is to win acceptance of Indonesia's dominant position in Southeast Asia, and backing for his campaign to bring the neighboring new nations to Malaysia to its knees.

It will be the second round attempt by Sukarno to secure such backing. He tried for it at the last meeting of the Afro-Asian Islamic conference, also held at Bandung, but didn't get it in the clear-cut terms he hoped for. Instead that conference's final communiqué, while condemning colonialism in general terms, made no mention of Britain or the United States by name, and Sukarno himself felt impelled to do so, declaring in speech at the end of the talks, that Britain, Australia, New Zealand, Canada and the United States were the imperialist forces behind Malaysia.

A resolution, sponsored by China, supporting Indonesia's plan to "crush Malaysia," was rejected, and the conference urged the Islamic nations to settle their disputes in an Islamic brotherly way.

And it did not help Sukarno much that when the conference ended the Indonesian postal services issued stamps showing a mosque and a map on which both Indonesia and Malaysia appeared in white as one country against a blue background. (Sukarno, incidentally, works away at creating in the mind of his own people the same notion.)

On Indonesia's state radio all news items emanating from Malaysian territory are classified as Indonesian domestic events.

The general feeling of observers here in Jakarta is that the government is drawing to good enough for them—consider this.

Nationalistic Wave

By STANLEY KARNOW from Manila

A STRIDENT, raucous, often vulgar wave of nationalism is now pervading the Philippines. Most of it is directed against the United States, which ruled this archipelago republic for nearly two generations, and it is taking a variety of forms.

Small but vocal student groups demonstrate regularly against the U.S. embassy in Manila, voicing demands for revision of treaties sanctioning U.S. military bases in the Philippines. Filipino businessmen fulminate against accords that give U.S. interests equal economic rights. Frequently using the vilest kind of language, newspaper columnists have turned U.S. Ambassador William McCormack Blair, Jr., into a helpless target of abuse.

Filipino businessmen fulminate against accords that give U.S. interests equal economic rights. Frequently using the vilest kind of language, newspaper columnists have turned U.S. Ambassador William McCormack Blair, Jr., into a helpless target of abuse.

In the process history is being rewritten with a new, nationalist and more pro-Asian slant. General Emilio Aguinaldo, who fought against the Americans at the turn of the century, was almost a forgotten man until his death last year at the age of 94. Now he is being proclaimed a national hero.

Similarly, President Jose Laurel, who led an "independent republic" under Japanese military auspices during the Second World War, was formerly branded a collaborator. Today he, too, is a hero. Indeed, some Filipinos looking back on the last world war have even suggested that the Philippines could have avoided participation if it had declared its neutrality. Instead, they say, "we became the battlefield for a war between the U.S. and Japan."

Implicit in this attitude is a discernible fear among Filipinos that their country may again become a battlefield. The example of Viet Nam, only 700 miles away, is a matter for serious cogitation. Besides, some Filipinos feel hemmed in between two giants of Asia.

As one newspaper editor put it: "We have 100 million Indonesians to our south and 700 million Chinese in our west. Can we rely forever on the U.S. to protect us? Some day, perhaps, we will have to accommodate ourselves to the growing powers in Asia."

This sort of "neutralist" talk was anathema in the Philippines a couple of years ago. Nowadays it is current and respectable. In fact, no less a figure than General Carlos P. Romulo, formerly General Douglas MacArthur's aide and later Philippine ambassador to Washington, has become a leading exponent of strengthening the Philippines' ties to Asia.

"The feeling of awe and reverence Asians had for the white man ended when the Japanese defeated Westerners," he explains. "That defeat caused a fundamental change in Asian psychology. It showed that Westerners had lost of day."

Oddly, many Filipinos have come to display great respect for Indonesia. They acknowledge that Indonesia's tangled economy leaves much to be desired. Nevertheless, they are openly envious of what they term Indonesia's "nationalist spirit."

In part, at least, the Philippine attraction towards Indonesia reflects a longing by Philippines to shape their own national identity. Historically, they are a base of Malay and Chinese, overlaid by four centuries of Spanish rule and topped by a frothy icing of exaggerated Americanism. The odd mixture has not quite jelled.

A common pitfall for Americans visiting the Philippines is to consider that because Filipinos speak like Americans they think like Americans. Beneath the Western veneer, however, Filipinos adhere to Asian values—a strong attachment to their families, and a set of ethics that, by Western measure, is highly elastic.

Even the Filipino's Catholicism is singularly Oriental. "He is shame-orientated, not guilt-orientated," explains a Jesuit priest in Manila. "He doesn't behave to satisfy his conscience, but to please his family and small circle of friends. His Christianity is split-level Christianity."

But perhaps more profoundly, the ambiguous, indistinct quality of nationalism in the Philippines reflect the country's demography. About 70 per cent of the Philippine population is under the age of 30. Unlike older Filipinos, these youths were not educated by U.S. teachers. Moreover, this younger generation was not deeply scarred by the Japanese occupation of the Philippines. They do not regard the Japanese as conquerors, but as Asians who, in the post-war period, have developed an affluent and enviable society.

But with all the noise exuded by Filipino nationalists, and though they are now citizens of a sovereign state, many Filipinos sense a peculiar brand of kinship to Americans. And in this kinship there seems to be a residual respect for the American as a kind of "big brother"—an image that may be no longer true.

The poignant experience of a prominent Filipino lawyer, perhaps illustrates the awkward, uncomfortable transformation of Philippine-U.S. relations. The change may be valid for other ex-colonies as well.

"It was just a boy during the war when the Americans landed to liberate us," the lawyer told me. "My family adopted a GI, and he became my hero. He brought me chocolate and chocolate. We invited him to our house for dinner. Then, after a month or so, he moved on. We never saw or heard from him again."

"But last year I was on a business trip to New York, and staying at an expensive hotel. And there I found my GI again—operating an elevator at the hotel."

"Now it was my turn to keep him on my mind at a fancy restaurant. But we couldn't retender the warmth of those wartime days. We were both embarrassed. After dinner we went our separate ways."

(Karnow's separate way.)

Remedying the Inedible

It was Hector Munro who said: "The cook was a good cook as good cooks go. He went..."

Mr. Munro was right. And for every good cook who goes there are 10,000 bad cooks who stay.

Marriages are wrecked by bad cooks, and food, instead of being used as a delicate and artistic nourishment of affection, is often used as a hostile missile in the stormier household.

Complaining husbands have been pelted with hot sprouts and even the telly, that sacred altar of the modern household, has been known to receive a rather rude-tube-full of spaghetti hurled by a maddened spouse to emphasize a culinary point.

Therefore I particularly welcome "The Awful Cook's Book," which has just been published by Wolfe Publishing at 3s 6d—much less than the price of a plate of fried whitebait.

(Note for young wives. Whitebait is an unsatisfactory fish to eat at the old man for these minnows have no impact value and you get too much "scatter effect" as we used to say in the Gunners.)

The author of "The Awful Cook's Book," Sonia Allison, gives a horrifying but, I am sure, truthful picture of the massacre of food that goes on in hundreds of thousands of kitchens every day, and she boldly tackles the problem from what I might call the disaster end.

She talks of catastrophic cakes sunken in the centre, hideously shiny-topped and cracked and dry.

She tells of stringy and tasteless fish with that tired, stale look, and solemn omelettes that are tough and cracked and brittle and, of course, stuck to the pan.

There are scummy soups and stiff, rubbery jellies.

By CASSANDRA from London

There are slushy marmos, pale and greasy omelets, gritty spinach, coarse repellent hunks of sullen meat, stuffing that tastes of horsehair and plaster, speckled truculent lumps of pastry and sticky jam-flavored with the taste of burnt coffee.

Mrs. Sonia Allison (I think she must be a Mrs. rather than a Miss, for I seem to detect the battle-hiss of matrimony) deals faithfully with all these horrible predicaments and suggests practical remedial action.

For most French scientists, English is the second language. At international congresses, it is their first language. The reason is quite simple: English has become the first language of international science.

Russian has assumed increasing importance during the post-war period. German still occupies an important place but inevitably lost ground as a result of the war. The French language also holds a subsidiary place.

That may gall President de Gaulle but he is not likely to alter the picture. All he will succeed in doing is making international communications a little more difficult for his country's scientists and for others.

A recent market survey of the habits of the American magazine-reading public revealed the fact that a substantial portion of those interviewed chose Collier's magazine as their favorite publication.

On a supplementary question, a high percentage of these readers were asked if there was only one magazine to choose, which would they select?

They plumped solidly for Collier's.

Collier's magazine ceased publication in 1957.

Sir Robert Menzies, the prime minister of Australia, has been talking about the war in Viet Nam. He says that it is "the greatest act of moral courage since Britain stood alone at the beginning of the Second World War."

I think that the Americans are right in their policy, but pushing Jesuitical tributes, such as this, about what is going on in napalm, white phosphorus and the murderous bombing outside the American embassy in Saigon—only add a sense of the horrible macabre to these horrible proceedings.

The Language Of Science

From The Education Journal

THE resurgent nationalism of Gaullist France continues to add to its litter of archaisms.

The latest is a stern call from President de Gaulle for the use of French by French scientists at international congresses. He castigated them for using English and was dutifully echoed by Premier Pompidou.

For most French scientists, English is the second language. At international congresses, it is their first language. The reason is quite simple: English has become the first language of international science.

Russian has assumed increasing importance during the post-war period. German still occupies an important place but inevitably lost ground as a result of the war. The French language also holds a subsidiary place.

Canada's Mr. Smith Man to Note

By RON COLLISTER

Who is Arnold Smith, the Toronto-born diplomat put forward by Prime Minister Lester Pearson as candidate for the post of first secretary-general of the Commonwealth Secretariat?

You may not have heard of him because he lives the unexposed life of a member of Canada's diplomatic elite. He is probably better known to Nikita Khrushchev than to most Canadians.

As our Russian-speaking ambassador to Moscow from 1960 to 1963, he had a special "in" with Khrushchev and was a valuable listening post for the whole Western alliance.

United Arab Republic President Nasser also knows Mr. Smith, from 1958 to 1960 our ambassador to Cairo. Mr. Smith played an important behind-the-scenes role in patching up Nasser's post-Suez troubles with the West.

Mr. Smith is well known too in the emerging nations of Asia and Africa. It was because of this that several new members of the Commonwealth at the prime ministers' conference in London last summer, insisted that he would be the first secretary-general.

Commonwealth sources in London expect agreement by next month on appointment of a secretary-general. The secretariat will likely be formally approved at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in June.

The secretary-general's post will be one of the world's most influential jobs — top executive officer in the group affairs of 700,000,000 people.

ARNOLD SMITH

In importance and influence, it could come second only to the post of secretary-general of the United Nations.

If the Commonwealth's multi-racial credo endures, setting an example to the world, the group is about to blossom into a new form, with stature that the original empire builders never dreamed of.

Mr. Smith is reluctant to talk about the Commonwealth job. But he talks more freely about his past. "As a foreign ambassador in Moscow, I saw a good deal more of Khrushchev than most," he said. "I could speak the language and that helps."

He returned to Canada in 1963, and now is assistant under-secretary of state, and head of the department's commonwealth division.

Mr. Smith is a graduate of the University of Toronto and Oxford — where he studied as a Rhodes scholar. From 1939 to 1942 he was employed by the British government in Estonia and Cairo, then he transferred to Canada's Department of External Affairs.

His first Canadian postings were in Russia. He returned to Canada in 1945 and has since served in many key posts, including a term as special assistant to Canada's External Affairs Minister — at that time Lester Pearson.

Who is Mr. Smith? He is a man you're going to hear plenty about in the future.

At 40, already a diplomat of global stature, he's a relatively young man with a long way to go.

Hydro Visions Practical

By IAN STREET

The Columbia River treaty was just the beginning.

In the hydro-electric field B.C. and the U.S. western states are talking seriously about schemes that are still regarded in some quarters as purely visionary.

For instance: an extra high voltage transmission link from the Peace River country of B.C. to Los Angeles.

Resources Minister Ray Williston, a hard-headed practical man, believes that within five years transmission lines will span the 1,000 miles to southern California.

B.C. has vast amounts of undeveloped hydro within economic distance of this transmission link.

By 1968 we will have developed or have under development some 5,000,000 kilowatts of installed hydro capacity. But B.C.'s potential hydro installation has been estimated at between 80,000,000 and 100,000,000 KW.

Development of these power resources awaits only suitable markets either in B.C. or elsewhere.

Mr. Williston says he can see no reason why some of this hydro potential should not be developed to meet U.S. markets.

CAPITAL REPORT

either in Alaska or the western states below the border.

It is a logical step from co-operative development of the Columbia basin to marketing of power on a regional basis that spans a continent.

There would be benefits all round from such a scheme.

Not the least of these would be a reverse flow of electricity that would assist B.C. in meeting its peak loads.

Time zone and seasonal differences would, of course, work both ways.

Hydro experts tell us that the earlier runoff from rivers in Washington and Oregon and the later run-off from those in northern B.C. would together produce more power than two separate systems.

In California peak electric loads occur in summer when air conditioning units in practically every home are going full blast. The sun that parches the southwest also requires heavy use of power for irrigation.

In the U.S. Pacific northwest they are gradually building summer loads — as air conditioning becomes more popular — but the peak is in winter.

B.C.'s peak loads are all in winter. So, the plan would be, to send excess power we have generated south in summer, and reverse the flow in winter.

Savings to both could be substantial. Certainly, as Mr. Williston told a Los Angeles audience a few days ago, it will take considerable international co-operation.

But the stage has already been set by the Columbia River treaty which is benefiting both Canada and the U.S. without eroding sovereignty.

'Special Job Man' in Paris

What's Zorin Up To?

By DON COOK
From Paris

When diplomats move from capital to capital it usually attracts about as much attention as the changing seasons, but the arrival in Paris last week of Valerian Zorin to take up his appointment as the new Russian ambassador to France is an event of exceptional political interest.

Zorin begins his mission to France at a strategic moment in east-west relations — particularly the development of President de Gaulle's policies of independent diplomacy in world affairs. Moreover, Zorin is a very senior figure in the Soviet diplomatic hierarchy, and a "special job man" in Russian diplomacy.

From 1945 to 1948, he was Soviet ambassador to Czechoslovakia, and in this capacity for Stalin he ran the Communist coup which snuffed out Czechoslovakia's precarious independence.

He then was sent to Bonn to open a Russian embassy in West Germany in 1956, and returned to Moscow two years later.

From 1960 to 1962, he was at the United Nations during the period of the stepped-up Khrushchev offensive against Berlin, Cuba and the West. Then, he turned up at Geneva in mid-1961 as head of the Soviet disarmament conference delegation in the months before and after Russia abruptly resumed nuclear testing.

He does not stay in any post very long, and the special jobs which he undertakes for Moscow are the tough and nasty ones.

He is 62 years old and he is rooted in Stalinism. He was on the central committee of Komsomol, the Communist youth organization, from 1922 to 1932, and he then served in the party propaganda machinery from 1935 to 1941, the period of the purge trials, collectivization, and some of the worst excesses of the Stalin era.

He moved to what was then the national commissariat for foreign affairs in 1941, and has been an alternate member and then a member of the Soviet central committee since 1956.

Zorin has a personality to match his record. If he is not as vindictively nasty as was Andrei Vishinsky, he is a very difficult man with whom to deal. For the French, he will be the very opposite of the man whom he replaces in Paris — Sergei Vinogradov, who spent nearly 12 years in France turning on the charm on behalf of Russia.

Nevertheless the French are well aware that Zorin is of higher rank and that he carries more weight in Moscow than Vinogradov.

In a sense, therefore, de Gaulle has achieved at least part of his ambition to see France playing a more important role in the diplomatic scheme of things.

Zorin's appointment clearly signals a Russian effort to find out what kind of business they might be able to do with de Gaulle.

But the Russian choice for this mission is still a curious one.

De Gaulle is a political realist but he is also an intellectual, and those who have dealt with Zorin in the past find it difficult to visualize any kind of intellectual contact or rapport between the two men.

On the other hand, Vinogradov almost bubbled over pretending that he had a particular intimacy or understanding with de Gaulle, and very little came of that either.

In practical matters, France is leading the pressures against United States policies in Southeast Asia, and De Gaulle's theme of "Atlantic to the Urals" organization of Europe contemplates an American withdrawal from the European continent. When it comes down to cases and a matter of what realities these Gaullist constructions might really take, Moscow will be more interested in Zorin's tough appraisals.

Dorion Probe To Spark Election?

CALGARY (CP) — Findings of the Dorion inquiry could possibly prompt a federal election, Erik Nielsen (PC-Yukon) said Wednesday.

"It depends largely on what action the report recommends and what the prime minister does about it," Mr. Nielsen told a press conference.

It was issues raised by Mr. Nielsen in the Commons which led to the inquiry.

Later, during an address to students at the University of Alberta, Calgary, Mr. Nielsen criticized the Pearson government for what he called "de-confirmation on the instant plan."

Chevron Gasolines

You keep the cost of family vacation trips down, when you fill up regularly at the sign of the Chevron.

For over a generation continual advances in the quality of Chevron Gasolines have had a single aim: to provide your engine with the smoothest, most dependable power available and to give you more miles per gallon.

In 1960, for example, Chevron led the whole industry by introducing Methyl — the biggest breakthrough in anti-knock additives since Ethyl, 36 years earlier. Other big leaps forward have included a special additive to banish carburetor-icing; Chevron's famous Detergent-Action formula which keeps your carburetor as clean as the day it was installed; improved refining processes to assure the best possible octane values for new and older engines alike.

Today, this compound program towards ultimate perfection has put Chevron Gasolines in a class by themselves. They represent the sum total of every element known to date that goes to make a truly superb gasoline.

COMING OF AGE

With Sally Hamilton

By SALLY HAMILTON

Five out of every 100 Canadians over the age of 50 are diabetic. One of them writes: "I am a widow 64 years old. I have been taken down with sugar diabetes for about four years. I am on a diet of 1,500 calories and I have to lose weight. I take insulin. Have had diet sheets but I don't think they are much good to me. Would like to get any information you can give me about treatment."

For a diet sheet to be "good for her", the patient has to follow the instructions it gives. With the ever-present temptation of appetizing (but forbidden) foods, this isn't always easy. But even a severe case of diabetes can be controlled if one is willing to follow the rules.

There is a case on record with the Canadian Diabetic Association of a Toronto man—a veteran of the First World War—who, as a young man, was a victim of diabetes. At that time, this disease was a sure killer. All that could be done for him was to prescribe a restricted diet—a diet that he referred to, wryly, as a "mostly lettuce."

Whatever he ate, he had it at the right place. Away back in 1922, he had lunch frequently with Dr. Banting (of insulin fame) and some of his colleagues at the YMCA. It was over a noonday meal that Dr. Banting suggested that the newly discovered insulin might be a help, and he became one of the first patients to be given insulin treatment.

With the help of this drug and a well-regulated diet, the war veteran was able to live an interesting, useful and healthy life for over 40 years.

He carried on a successful business, travelled extensively, was active in bowling, curling and yachting and he lived well into his 70's. Moreover, he gave encouragement and help to many others.

So it can be done.

During a recent visit to a home for aging, I was impressed with the good lunch served us as visitors. I asked the director if residents were happy with the meal service.

"Generally they are, yes. Some folks, as happens even at home, have food prejudices so, at most meals, we give them a choice."

"What about special diets?" I asked. "Do you make any provision for diabetics, for example?"

"Oh yes, we have quite a number of diabetics here. People are more likely to have the disease as they grow older you know. We serve them only the foods that are allowed in their diets. No choices."

I asked, "Does this keep things under control? Do they ever eat forbidden foods?"

"People who have diabetes are the same as other folks the world over. Unfortunately, there will always be some who we call 'wayward.' They have an appetite for foods that are taboo and, in spite of the penalty they pay of being ill afterwards, they satisfy that appetite. They forget who they are fooling. I guess."

It was because diabetics need help that the Canadian Diabetic Association was formed. CDA supplies literature, conducts educational and research projects and detection campaigns which have helped to find many undetected cases.

If you are past middle age, have regular tests made, for diabetes is a disease more common to the aging. Heredity is another hazard. If you are related to a diabetic, you have a special reason for being on guard. Again, if you are as much as 10 per cent overweight, you are more likely to develop the disease.

Of the five people in every 100 over the age of 50 who have diabetes, only three are aware of it. So the business of diagnosis is most important. Fortunately, it is easy to discover, the treatment is simple and the result is an active, satisfying life.

There are branches of the Canadian Diabetic Association in many Canadian cities. Diet counselling service is provided to members of the association. Books on meal planning and a cookbook are available at low cost. For full information as to membership and services, write to: The Canadian Diabetic Association, 1491 Yonge Street, Toronto 7.

It Changes Speed, Too

That Majestic Moon May Wander a Bit

NEW YORK (AP)—The moon sailing majestically through the sky is not on a fully steady course. Its orbit and even its speed vary.

Two mathematicians announced Tuesday new and far more accurate computations of its tricky course, after five years of sleuthing with the aid of an IBM computer.

The computations were announced by Dr. W. J. Eckert, director of the International Business Machine Corporation's Watson laboratory at Columbia University, and H. F. Smith Jr., laboratory research associate and graduate student. Dr. Eckert also is professor of celestial mechanics at Columbia University.

Their calculations can predict the exact position of the moon to within a few feet for several centuries, Dr. Eckert said. Variations as small as one inch in the moon's motion are taken care of in their predictions.

They turned up a "major error" in the international lunar ephemeris, or almanac, Dr. Eckert said.

SPEED FLUCTUATES

The moon's speed fluctuates over a three-year cycle. It speeds up for 1½ years, and slows down for the next 1½ years, he explained. The present emphasis doesn't show the full effect of these changes.

So, at times, the moon is as much as 440 feet ahead of its predicted position, and later as far as 440 feet behind. For astronomers using the moon as a celestial clock, their standard time can be off as much as three-tenths of a second.

Washington's Ghost Lincoln's Avenger?

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Standing inside Ford's Theatre, amid the rubble of reconstruction work, a historian muses fancifully:

"Could it be that the ghost of George Washington was the first to exact punishment from the assassin of Abraham Lincoln?"

One hundred years ago tonight, John Wilkes Booth, hard-drinking actor, stole into a box where Lincoln was enjoying the play Our American Cousin, and shot him in the back of the head. The wounded president was carried across the street to a boarding house, where he died the following morning.

After firing the fatal shot, Booth stabbed a military aide. Then he vaulted over the balustrade of the box to the stage 11 feet below.

And when Booth hit the stage, a bone in his left leg was broken.

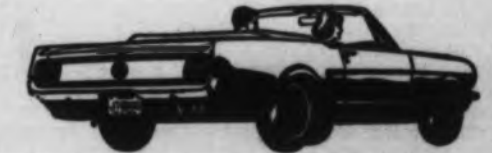

Dr. George J. Olszewski, historian for the National Park Service, which is restoring the old theatre to its 1865 state, has no means of knowing whether the encounter with the picture led to Booth's fractured leg. But he reflects that if this were true, there would be a certain grim justice to it.

Grimmer justice overtook Booth 12 days later. Federal cavalry cornered him in a Virginia barn and set it afire, in hopes of driving him out and taking him alive. But an overzealous trooper, contrary to the wishes of his officers, thrust a carbine through a crack in the barn and shot him down. Now, 100 years later, the scene of the assassination, the red brick theatre on 10th Street N.W., between E and F, is undergoing a top-to-bottom reconstruction.

Floating Air Links Will Span Oceans

LONDON (AP)—A group of British companies has unveiled plans to build floating telecommunications stations spanning oceans to give more dependable radio links with high-speed aircraft.

The manned stations would be tubular structures 400 feet long, 16 feet in diameter, floating vertically like giant turrets, and moored to the seabed.

A spokesman for the group says the system would "provide urgently needed navigation and communication facilities for rapidly increasing high-speed air traffic, especially on the North Atlantic routes."

The spokesman says that when a plane crossing the wider oceans disappears below the radio horizon it is out of range of first-class radio communication services.

The companies did not specify when they hoped to have such floating stations in operation.

How to carry a tray skillfully, even if you're not a beer waiter.

Ever watch the way a good beer waiter handles a tray? That's Beermanship in its highest form.

Next time you have company, you can astound and delight them with your tray-technique:

1. Load glasses and bottles onto a flat tray.

2. Slide the tray onto your outstretched arm, as shown in the right-hand picture. (Ignore the other picture.)

3. Relax as you walk, and let the tray become "part of your arm."

4. Serve the beer calmly, from the middle of the tray, so it stays evenly balanced. It's easy, once you get the hang of it.

Note: This will work well with Molson Canadian — the light beer that's all beer.

Try it.

Beermanship will set you straight about ice-cold beer

Victoria Shingle Mill Sells Buildings, Site

McCarter Shingle Co., which has been producing shingles in Victoria for 54 years, has sold its property and buildings at Bay and Rock Bay.

Sale price to the purchaser, Butler Bros., is believed to be about $150,000 for the three acres and buildings. The mill has been on the site since 1917. It was founded by W. K. McCarter in 1911.

FOR EXPANSION

Butler Bros. will use the site for expansion of its present operation.

Ker and Stephenson handled the sale.

McCarter Shingle Co. is now looking for a new site in the harbor area to set up a modern, streamlined mill.

Heavy machinery owned by the shingle firm was not included in the sale.

Property was put on the market after company officials decided streamlining was needed for efficiency.

Sale came much quicker than expected; McCarter Shingle Co. has assured employees of several months' work at the present site.

William McCarter said financing may be needed before setting up a mill in another location.

Veterans of Ypres To Hold Reunion

Fifty years ago Canadian soldiers faced the world's first gas attack, near Ypres, and April 21 the Red Chevron Association of Vancouver Island will mark the anniversary of the battle with a banquet at 7:30 p.m. in the Empress Hotel.

Before the banquet, the association, made up of Canadian veterans of the First World War, will assemble at Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' headquarters, 1001 Wharf, for a short get-together.

'Miser' Ate Garbage

Skid Road Scavenger Jailed as Vagrant

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man known as The Skidroad Scavenger who is believed by his fellows to have a large amount of money was sent to jail for three months for vagrancy Tuesday.

Before sentencing Paul Granfors, 67, Magistrate Cyril White heard that he lived by his own choice an existence that would have appalled a rat.

He was told that Granfors was a recluse with convictions for vagrancy dating back to 1927 and that he slept in the bush and lived on putrid food he picked up from garbage cans.

Const. M. J. Clydesdale said when arrested Sunday Granfors appeared to be eating from some empty cans.

MONEY HIDDEN?

"He appeared dirty and he smelled dirty as I approached him. I found in the cans old pieces of mouldy cheese, pieces of fried chicken which reeked with decay and dirty clothes."

In an interview after the hour-long trial a police spokesman said Granfors is believed by bums and vagrants in the skidroad area to be a miser and to have large amounts of money stashed away.

Old Lady in the Lake

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP)— "And they thought I had a bad heart," an 80-year-old widow said today as she told how she was blown 700 feet into a lake by a tornado.

She survived by clinging to wreckage from her home.

"The house shook and made a lot of noise," she said. "The lights went out. So I went upstairs to my bedroom and found I couldn't open the door."

"I went back downstairs, lit two kerosene lanterns and started writing a letter. I just couldn't sit there and do nothing. Then the noise started again. The table began to tip. I fell down. I can't remember when I felt the water. It kept coming up until it reached my chin."

Realizing she was in the lake, Mrs. Norris managed to reach a large piece of floating debris which once had been part of her home. She began to call for help.

"I called and called. There was no answer. Then I heard voices calling."

The voices were those of neighbors Dr. D. D. Walker and Larry Raymond.

Dr. Walker said that when he managed to locate where the voice was coming from out of the night shrouded lake he walked out into the water until it reached his neck. He found Mrs. Norris at this point and carried her back to shore.

He and Raymond took her to a nearby hospital where she was treated for cuts and bruises and released. She went to stay with relatives.

Only the foundation of Mrs. Norris' home remains. The Hillsdale County twister was one of several tornadoes which killed 45, injured an estimated 500 plus and did $30,000,000 damages in 10 Michigan counties.

Ottawa Sets Up Commission

OTTAWA (CP) — Establishment of a five-member Fraser River Harbor Commission was announced Wednesday by the federal transport department.

Members are to include three appointees of the federal government and two of the 10 municipalities bordering on the Fraser River within the harbor limits.

The commission succeeds the former New Westminster Harbor Commissioners which had four members—two appointed by the federal government and one by the City of New Westminster. The department said in a press statement that the new commission was established by Parliament in 1913.

Partners in Murder Go to the Gallows

LANSING, Kan. (AP) — Richard Hickock and Perry Smith, partners in crime, were hanged at the state prison early Wednesday almost 8 1/2 years after they were convicted of killing a family of four.

"I don't have any hard feelings," Hickock told witnesses. "You're sending me to a better place."

Smith smiled, but his last words were a complaint.

MORALLY WRONG

"I think it's a hell of a thing that a life has to be taken in this manner. I think capital punishment is legally and morally wrong."

They were found guilty of slaying Herbert Wesley Clutter, a wheat farmer, his wife, teen-aged daughter and son at the lavish Clutter home west of Garden City, Kan., the night of Nov. 14, 1958.

GIVEN 4 REPRIEVES

Governor William H. Avery, U.S. District Judge George Temple of Topeka, Kan., and Associate Justice Byron R. White of the U.S. Supreme Court all turned down requests Tuesday for a final stay of execution after four reprieves.

The slaying of the Clutters climaxed a robbery, in which less than $50 in cash, a portable radio and pair of binoculars were taken.

Parade Planners Hope for Floats

There will probably be more floats than last year and fewer hands if plans for the Victoria Day parade materialize.

Sluggish Kidneys May Bring Restless Nights

If you "fight the pillow," toss and turn all through the night and don't really know why—perhaps here's news and help for you! One cause of such restlessness may be caused by sluggish kidney action. Urinary irritation and bladder discomfort may follow. The result can be backache and restless nights. This is when Dodd's Kidney Pills can help bring relief. Dodd's stimulates kidney action, helps relieve the irritated condition that causes the backache. Take Dodd's, and see if you don't feel better, rest better. Don't wait. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. Used successfully by millions for over 10 years.

Not that there's any scarcity of bands. Mrs. Joan Neville-Smith, secretary of the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association, said Wednesday that if all the applications were accepted, there would be 26 from the United States alone.

However, it was the association's desire to have more items of interest between bands this year.

In order to stimulate interest in floats cash prizes will be awarded as well as trophies.

Entry forms for floats may be obtained from Mrs. Neville-Smith at city hall.

Is your wife leading a double life?

We're sure she is!

She's both socialite and housekeeper.

"But she doesn't have to spend so much time with that floor mop," you say. And you're right!

You can lighten her household tremendously by installing Armstrong Corlon vinyl floors in the busy rooms in your home.

You'll pay more for Corlon but its value makes it a sound investment.

Take cleaning! A quick once-over with a damp mop literally floats off dust and dirt. Corlon's vinyl surface makes this possible. And Corlon needs a minimum of waxing.

We call Corlon the "permanent beauty" floor because the colours go through to the backing. The design can't wear off—ever.

Nor can Corlon be marred by household spills like food, coffee, perfume, grease, even alcohol.

Some Corlon stylings have a gentle textured surface you can actually feel, which helps hide accidental scuffs and spiked heel marks while other Corlon stylings have smooth surfaces.

Seven Corlon stylings have exclusive, alkali resistant, Hydrocord backing and can be installed in any room, even in most downstairs playrooms directly on the concrete; eliminating the need for costly sub-flooring.

Available in long rolls, 6 feet wide, Corlon gives your room the wall-to-wall effect, with few seams. And these are hardly visible.

We'll send you a free sample of Corlon and colourful booklets showing styles and colorings of all Armstrong Corlon floors. Write—Armstrong, Department 2485 Post Office Box 1275, Montreal, Quebec.

Douglas Street shopping centre in Victoria.
The annual report said this was a most satisfactory result and one that augurs well for the future.

The main tenant, Woodward's, completed its first full year of occupancy on October 31, 1964, and the report says its sales were such that rental calculated as a percentage of sales exceeded the minimum rent.

"During the same period the tenants of the smaller retail stores have on the whole been making steady progress," the report says. Adjustments necessary to these operations have been or are being made.

Mayfair Shopping Centre is a wholly owned subsidiary of Canadian Allied Investments Ltd., of which Frank Ross is chairman and P. R. Brissenden is president. It also wholly owns Pleasant Ridge Estates Ltd. and Third Properties Ltd.

Allied's net profit for the year was $35,308.

BURBARD IN GLOOM
The net profit of Burbard Dry Dock Company Ltd. in 1964 was six times lower than in the previous year, and Clarence Wallace, president, says the company would not be justified in anticipating further major ship construction contracts in the near future. Details of the financing will be announced April 23.

NOTHING OWING
Interest payments will be brought up-to-date April 30 on the income debentures of two eastern Canadian mining companies.

They are the six per cent debentures of Mattagami Lake Mines Ltd. and Orchan Mines Ltd.

Mattagami will pay $14.50 per $100 debenture representing 29 months' interest, while Orchan's payment of $13 represents 26 months' interest.

Support the Canadian Cancer Society.

BILL YIELD RISES
The yield on the 91-day government treasury bills rose to 1.64 per cent Thursday from the eight months low of 1.61 per cent a week ago.

Bill by Barry Mather Urges:

Make Federal Records Public

OTTAWA (CP)—A bill to empower the Exchequer Court to force the federal government to disclose any unclassified records and information to interested persons has been proposed to the Commons by New Democrat Barry Mather, member for New Westminster.

The bill, expected to be debated during the current session of Parliament, would require that "every administrative or ministerial commission, power, and authority shall make its records and information concerning its doing available to any person at his request in a reasonable manner and time."

Exceptions would be made for records affecting national security, matters exempted by statute from disclosure, trade secrets or confidential commercial information obtained from private persons, and matters of private interest "to the degree that the right to personal privacy excludes the public interest."

PARTS: WHEN AND WHERE YOU WANT THEM

Know something? Regardless of the make and model they drive, some 42% of all Canadian car owners will need one or more replacement parts between now and next December. Likely it will be a minor item — a new headlight lens, an ignition coil, a cigarette lighter for the one that went missing. But when you want it you'll want it fast! In this respect you're very much like the Australians, the South Africans and the citizens of 80 other countries where we sell cars. That's the reason why, this month, we're stockpiling DATSUN parts right across Canada — not just in Vancouver. We want to keep the friends our fast selling and dependable Japanese compacts are making for us in cities and towns all over the world.

Cancer Research Open to Anybody

Cancer research is not a closed corporation, a Victorian meeting was told Wednesday.

Dr. J. M. W. Gibson, associate director of the B.C. Cancer Institute in Vancouver, told the Victoria Conquer Cancer Campaign committee that the search for a cure is open to anybody.

Dr. Gibson was replying to recent suggestions made over a Vancouver radio station by a commentator that the Canadian Cancer Research Institute is an "Establishment."

Dr. Gibson

City's Plans Topic In Ottawa

Victoria's improvement and beautification program will be described by Mayor Wilson at a Centennial Commission seminar in Ottawa in June.

Discussion of Victoria's plans will be part of a conference on community improvement and rural beautification.

Mayor Wilson's speech will be part of the opening ceremony and will be given following the keynote speech by, it is expected, the federal minister of trade and commerce.

The discovery of insulin and its use with diabetes was an example of chance, independent discovery that "rang the bell."

But why must research be so expensive? was a question Dr. Gibson faced continually.

"If we adopt a defeatist attitude toward cancer research, and rely on the 'garage' boys, it would be like picking horse races with a pin stuck through the program," he said.

"Specialists in all avenues of cancer research are necessary."

Dr. Gibson said about 50 per cent of cancer patients are cured and a rise in that percentage to 60 per cent would be remarkable and make all research efforts worthwhile.

He praised the Conquer Cancer Campaign's educational programs, which play a large part in detection of the disease. He pointed out that B.C. leads Canada in its prevention of death by invasive cervical cancer through an organized system of testing.

Dr. Gibson was introduced by Mr. Dugald Gillespie, chairman of the Victoria Conquer Cancer Campaign, and thanked by Mr. K. L. Patton.

Victoria Dry Good Friday

Victoria will be dry on Good Friday when all liquor outlets close for the day.

Closing time Thursday night for bars and beer parlors will be a half-hour early at 11:30 p.m.

All outlets will resume normal hours Saturday and Monday.

Pennants, Guns For Birthday

The RCN will mark the birthday of Queen Elizabeth April 21 with a 21-gun salute and use of decorative pennants on ships and establishments.

Two special shore-based guns will fire the salute from HMCS Dockyard.

Called "Dress Overall," the pennant-flying will begin at 8 a.m. and end at sunset.

Extra Money For Klan Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House of Representatives gave strong support Wednesday to an investigation of the Ku Klux Klan, and voted the Committee on Un-American Activities an extra $50,000 to study the hooded society.

Calm Urged for Playhouse

Settling-In Time Needed

What the McPherson Playhouse needs now is a period of non-controversial calm in order to settle back and find itself, according to Mayor Wilson.

He knew, he said, that the theatre had been sharply criticized and the management accused of errors of judgment. Some criticism may have been justified.

"There seems to be a lot of talk about theatre prices being too high, but this is an area where theatre management and supervising committee has little control," the mayor said.

FIXED BY COMPANY

Bevis Helps 3U Campaign

Employee division of the tri-universities capital fund will not get a new co-chairman, according to fund officials.

Subscription of funds from the employee group will continue under Douglas Abbott, who had been co-chairman with Murray Drew who resigned last week.

Officials said Fred Bevis would co-ordinate the division.

Asked about the $3,000 guaranteed the Seattle company, Mayor Wilson said he thought the city would lose on the deal. Policy in future, he said, would be to go very slow on guarantees.

Mayor Wilson rejected the idea of operating the theatre under a board of trustees.

The Entertainment and Community Services committee, which now supervises playhouse policy and finances is, in effect, a trusteeship, the mayor said.

Four of its eight members, he pointed out, are representative members of the community and not aldermen.

The playhouse is run essentially by the management, the mayor pointed out. The manager is given a great deal of leeway and the committee hopes that he and his staff will be aggressive enough to make the playhouse a success and settle matters of small concern.

Members of the Washington State legislature reported for work as usual Wednesday even though their $40-a-day board and room allowance was cut off.

The money ran out Tuesday. The lawmakers still receive their regular pay of $1,200 a year, and there was enough money left to pay the help through Friday.

Many employees have been released, requiring those who remain to double up on their work.

Republican Governor Dan Evans said Monday he would not approve any more money to pay the legislature's subsistence while attending the legislature, but said the employees and printing expenses of the legislature should be paid.

TOYOTA CROWN

Canada's first limousine quality car priced at $2625.00

Presumptuous? Not at all. The Toyota Crown is indeed a limousine quality car. It is used daily by statesmen and company presidents in Japan and many other parts of the world. That, in fact, is how Toyota earned its enviable international reputation. The Toyota Crown has demonstrated its superb quality and reliability over thousands of miles of swift, silent and trouble-free driving in countries whose highways are decades behind Canada's in development.

The Toyota Crown should never be classed with lesser automobiles whose low prices are achieved only by sacrificing equipment necessary for your comfort and convenience. Every Toyota Crown comes equipped with undercoating; white wall tires; door-to-door deep pile carpeting; padded dash; seat belts; window washers; back-up lights and courtesy lights. Skeptics will doubt that a car of Toyota's quality, so equipped, can sell for just $2625.00. They doubted too, that high quality cameras could be sold for less.

Canadian Motor Industries is proud to offer the Toyota Crown to Canadians. We are determined to maintain Toyota's international reputation for excellence. That's why we instituted our policy of 24-hour service protection from coast to coast.

We invite you to visit your CMI dealer and inspect the Toyota Crown — the car with the international reputation for excellence.

'Dupuis Sought Racetrack Aid'

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP) — Jacques Roy, executive assistant to the late Quebec revenue minister Paul Earl, testified Wednesday that Yvon Dupuis took him out for lunch in 1961 and tried to enlist his support for a proposed racetrack at St. Luc, Que.

Mr. Roy was testifying at the preliminary hearing of Dupuis, former federal minister without portfolio, on influence-peddling charges.

At the end of Wednesday's testimony the hearing was adjourned to April 28.

RECEIVED LETTERS
The charges allege that Dupuis asked for and accepted $10,000 to use his influence in support of an application to the Quebec government for a racetrack charter.

Mr. Roy testified that Mr. Earl, who died in 1963, received a number of letters about the racetrack during 1961. The revenue department was responsible for issuing racetrack permits.

He said some of the letters came from Dupuis, Roch Deslauriers—the racetrack promoter—and Philidor Oumet, member of the Quebec legislature for St. John's.

ASKED TO LUNCH
Mr. Roy also recalled that Dupuis had been to Quebec City to see Mr. Earl in person.

Some time during the summer of 1961, he said, Dupuis asked him out to lunch alone and gave him a number of reasons why a racetrack would be good for the St. Luc region.

He told me it would break the cartel of Jean-Louis Levesque," Mr. Roy said.

Mr. Levesque is the principal shareholder of Blue Bonnets and Richelieu raceways in Montreal.

Mr. Roy denied that he had received $1,000 or any other amount of money from Dupuis.

"The only favor I ever got from him was when he paid for the lunch, about $5," he said.

"I wished him good luck."

Exceptions Sought In Death Ban

OTTAWA (CP) — The death penalty should be retained for persons convicted of murdering a peace officer or a penitentiary employee in any legislative act to abolish capital punishment, delegates to a Canadian penitentiary services employees conference said Wednesday.

The delegates, meeting in Ottawa to discuss recent wage increases which they consider insufficient, approved a resolution asking for retention of the penalty in these cases.

They took no position on the general question of abolition. The employees said the death penalty should be retained in these cases because its removal would take away the only effective deterrent against attacks from prisoners.

Mr. Roy said he spoke with Dupuis some time after the luncheon date and the federal MP expressed "discontent" with Premier Jean Lesage and Mr. Earl.

Asked how he recognized this discontent, Mr. Roy mentioned the tone of Dupuis' voice and the expression he used.

He said he was executive assistant to Mr. Earl for 2½ years and was authorized to open confidential correspondence.

Sgt. Gerard de la Durantaye, 43, an RCMP typewriter expert, told the court he conducted a series of tests on an Olympia typewriter owned by Dupuis, a Haida owned by Mr. Deslauriers and a Royal that Mr. Deslauriers said he rented last December.

SAME MACHINE
The policeman said two letters presented in court—one to Dupuis from Mr. Deslauriers, the other to Mr. Deslauriers from Dupuis—both were typewritten on the Olympia machine.

Airlines Agree to Cut Out In-Flight Films, Television

MONTREAL (UPI)—A move has been made to eliminate all in-flight visual entertainment throughout the world following agreement by 16 trans-Atlantic airlines to drop the showing of movies and closed-circuit television programs on airliners.

A spokesman for the International Air Transport Association, the controlling body of the airlines, said Wednesday only three member airlines are currently showing motion pictures or closed-circuit television programs on their flights.

VOTE UNANIMOUS
Trans World Air Lines, he said, has agreed to phase out its showing of movies on its routes by the end of August and Pakistan International Air Lines has expressed the intention of dropping its movies by March of 1962.

The third line, Philippine Airlines, says it will investigate the situation and make arrangements to drop its entertainment.

The IATA vote was unanimous, with Trans World abstaining, and formal approval of the move will be given by the governments concerned.

The spokesman said cost was the major factor in the decision along with a mixed public reaction to the showing of television and films. He said it would cost $50,000 per aircraft for installation of the equipment along with another $50,000 for the programming.

"We're not trying to be big, but we're not trying to be big," he said.

Prospecting At Peak In North

HAY RIVER, N.W.T. (CP) — Exploration and claim-staking for precious metals has reached a peak in this area over the last two weeks. One mining engineer said recently the scramble for claims could turn the Pine Point area, about 40 miles east of Hay River, into another Timmins.

Six companies and many individuals are reported to have staked about 1,000 claims following reports of commercial gold and silver discoveries in the region.

Claim-staking is now within 50 miles of Hay River, along both sides of the new Great Slave Lake rail line to Pine Point.

The size of the pan is as important as the mixture in it. In too large a pan a cake will be pale and shrunken, and in too small a pan it will overflow and turn out coarse.

Leafs Bow, 5-1 To Open Series With Portland

By JIM TANG
Colonist Sports Editor

PORTLAND—Victoria Maple Leafs are back in a familiar position after the first game of the Western Hockey League final here last night—they're behind. They gave it a pretty good try in Portland's glass palace but found playing without two regular defencemen was too much of a handicap and went under 5-1, to the league champion Buckaroos before 8,777 spectators. Missing from the lineup were Bill Shvetz, left at home with a back injury, and Sandy Hucul, who made the trip and found on his arrival here he was unable to skate effectively. He was injured in Seattle last Sunday when he stopped a shot with the inside of his foot.

Taylor was paired off with Fred Hucul but coach Rudy Pilius had to break up his most effective playoff line by re-creating John Seaver to partner Claude Labrosse.

They were missed. Dick Lamoureux went on full-time service to take Seaver's place between Lou Jankowski and Gordie Redahl but the rugged defence play of the two missing defencemen and Seaver's forechecking and play-making up front were missed.

At the finish, the difference was perhaps the two Portland goals scored in the first minute of the second period.

PLAYING WELL. A mix-up in front of the Victoria goal midway through the first period got Tom McVie Portland's first goal, with Jack Bionda's shot deflecting off him into an open net. But the Leafs were playing well and one goal didn't look insurmountable.

However, with Labrosse serving the tag end of a late first-period penalty, Buckaroos got their second goal at 18 seconds when Redahl was a bit slow getting over to clear a loose puck at the left point.

PERFECT DEFLECTION. Connie Madigan, barreling down the left boards, beat Redahl to the puck, whacked it along the boards and out to Jim Hay on the right point. Gerry Goyer deflected Hay's slap shot perfectly.

Immediately after the face-off, veteran Andy Heberton, getting a one on one chance against Labrosse, made a fine play by backing the puck into a small opening on the short side.

ALMOST SUCCESS. After the shock of this development had worn off, Leafs had a whirl at trying to get back into contention.

And they almost made a success out of it. Before Danny Belisle ended Don Head's shut-out chance with a shot that deflected off Portland defenceman Doug Messier, Jankowski had shot wide on a clean break and Head had barely scrambled in front of the puck on close-in tries by Milan Marcetta and Belisle.

SECOND PENALTY. But Taylor, extremely aggressive from the start, immediately took his second bad penalty. He had hardly settled down in the box when Heberton rapped in his second goal and his sixth in six playoff games.

That took much of the starch out of what might have become a more successful rally. The third period saw little to choose between the clubs but the Buckaroos could work constantly behind their three-goal margin.

FIFTH GOAL. They started nitting, got through the penalties they took and made it look perhaps more convincingly than it was when Larry Leach got their fifth goal late in the period.

The clubs return to Victoria for the second game Saturday night and return to Portland for the third game Sunday.

Leafs' Sandy Hucul will be able to return to action Saturday but there is no definite word on Shvetz.

FIRST PERIOD. Portland, McVie (Blond) 5:42. Penalties—Taylor (V) 2:34, Leach (P) 5:00; Shvetz (V) 6:30; Taylor (V), Donahue (P) (two minors) 6:42; Redahl (V) 10:00; Bionda (P) 10:05; Madigan (P) 15:20; Labrosse (V) 18:17.

SECOND PERIOD. Portland, Goyer (Hay, Madigan) 6:14. Portland, Belisle (McVie, Madigan) 11:05. Portland, Heberton (McVie, Goyer) 14:34. Penalties—Madigan (P) 6:15, Witkin (V) 7:11; Head (P) (called by Eitel) 11:20; Taylor (V) 14:30; Van Impe (P) 18:17.

THIRD PERIOD. Portland, Leach (Donahue) 15:20. Penalties—Madigan (P) 4:15, Hay (P) 6:14; Seaver (V) 11:05. Minor (P) 12:18. Shots—Miller (V) 12 11 6-20 Head (P) 10 12 10-22 Attendance 8,777.

Ex-Lumberjack Rides in Derby

NEW YORK (CP)—The stars finished fourth in the Flamingo Stakes in Florida.

The 23-year-old Canadian jockey, who five years ago was a lumberjack in northern New Brunswick, has been assigned to ride Tom Rolfe, rated among the top three or four of the three-year-olds which will start in the Kentucky Derby May 1.

Turcotte, who has never seen a Derby except on television, thinks he has a good chance to wind up in the winner's circle two weeks from Saturday.

BELLY RIDER. Tom Rolfe is from the stable owned by Raymond Guest, U.S. ambassador to Ireland. He's rated a come-from-behind horse and Turcotte has a reputation as a "belly rider"—the type of jockey who refuses to admit his mount is beaten until the race is over. The combination may be dynamic.

Last Saturday at Laurel, Tom Rolfe and Turcotte came from behind to win the Chesapeake Stakes, making it three victories for Tom Rolfe in four starts this year. As the other Derby starters, Guest's three-year-old will run 1 1/4 miles for the first time May 1.

MAIN INTEREST. Turcotte seems destined to be the main Canadian interest in the derby this year. Last year, E. P. Taylor's Canadian-bred Northern Dancer was the big news, as it won the race and went on to capture the Preakness before being beaten in the Belmont Stakes, the third of the famed triple-crown events for three-year-olds.

Taylor has a couple of derby nominees this year—Native Victor and Victory Myth. But neither is likely to start.

Nor is Flying, nominated by D. B. Weldon of London, Ont., likely to start. Flying

Mad Moment Around Maple Leaf Goal

Victoria goaltender Al Miller comes away out of his net to clear puck away from Tom McVie of Portland. His way is blocked by defenceman Bobby Taylor (19) who trips over him while Leafs' Fred Hucul (2) moves in to try to block empty cage. Portland won, 5-1.—(AP)

Punch Won't Push Panic Button

By SCOTT BUTTON

TORONTO (UPI)—Toronto Maple Leaf coach Punch Imlach, accepting defeat stoically, declared Wednesday he is not going to push the panic button.

The Leafs, Stanley Cup champions for the past three seasons, were beaten 4-3 by the Montreal Canadiens Tuesday night and eliminated from further play.

However, Imlach said: "We'll make just as many changes as necessary. We are not going to make changes just to make changes."

"However, we are no longer winners and we must try and rectify the situation," he admitted.

Discussing the June draft at which National Hockey League teams can protect just 18 players and two goaltenders, Imlach said: "You take a risk if you leave veterans off and protect rookies."

"However, age is a factor in who you leave off. But we are not going to be stampeded into protecting too many rookies who might not make it in the NHL, at the expense of proven veterans.

"Lots of clubs have lost the Stanley Cup before. Nobody wins forever," he said philosophically.

The bald-headed Toronto coach indicated he had no idea if any of his players will retire. The Leafs have the oldest team in the league and such performers as Terry Sawchuk, Allan Stanley, George Armstrong, Red Kelly and Dickie Moore could decide to hang up their skates.

Imlach has a wait-and-see attitude about trades. But he did express an interest in Boston defenceman Ted Green.

Asked if his club lost to the fast-skating Canadiens because they weren't hungry enough, he replied: "That's an intangible that might never be answered but certainly has to be considered."

He admitted rookies Ron Ellis and Pete Stemkowski were two of his better players in the playoffs and agreed when it was suggested the two, being unsuited by previous Stanley Cup championships, could have had more desire than many of the veterans.

Imlach pointed out the Leafs' farm clubs — Tulsa, Victoria, Rochester and the junior Marlboros — were all involved in the finals in their individual leagues.

He singled out centre Mike Walton, the Central League's rookie of the year, and Marlboro winger, Brit Selby, as two youngsters with "good chances" of moving up to the Leafs next season.

Imlach said winger Jim Pappin, who scored nine goals for the Leafs before being sent to Rochester, would be "that much tougher to knock out of a job" next season because of his added experience.

About Moore, he commented: "He's got a lot of guts and he wasn't the worst hockey player I had at the end of the season. We are not going to rob him of a chance to play if he wants to come back next year."

Imlach warned Boston and New York "did not be written off next season."

"We have to consider them as challengers because we were a fourth place team this season. If we lost four or five punts a year, how close will they come," he asked.

Imlach will make a tour of the farm system in the next week and hopes to see two games in Tulsa, Victoria and Rochester.

"You are supposed to get players from your own farm system because you can't buy them," he said.

It appears likely many Leaf farm hands, who have had little chance to make the parent team over the last three seasons, will be competing legitimately with veterans for jobs next fall.

Abel's Chance Tonight

Reay Was Right

DETROIT (CP)—Coach Billy Reay made a prediction last week that the Stanley Cup best-of-seven semi-final series between his Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings would go the limit.

And the soft-spoken Chicago coach had enough confidence in his prediction that reservations had been made back to Detroit even before his club entered the sixth game in Chicago Tuesday night trailing 3-2 in games.

Tonight's game may be seen in its entirety over channels 3 and 6 at 8 p.m., according to the CBC.

Reay had been made back to Detroit even before his club entered the sixth game in Chicago Tuesday night trailing 3-2 in games.

SAFE MOVE

It proved to be a safe move as the Hawks whitewashed the National Hockey League champions 6-0 to demolish the series.

Enter Sid Abel, coach of the injury-riddled Red Wings.

It was Abel's contention prior to the series that the Wings had an advantage if seven games were necessary because the extra game was scheduled for here.

The gravel-voiced Abel still sees it the same way.

"We've got the advantage," he repeated Wednesday.

He had pointed out that in order for Chicago to win the set they would have to take at least one game here. In three games they've failed to do so.

But the Wings have also failed to win in Chicago.

"They (the Hawks) seem to play terrific in Chicago, and we play terrific in Detroit," Abel said. "I don't know exactly what it is. The crowd, I guess. Chicago seems to get a rise because of its crowd. I know we do in Detroit because of our fans."

MORE INJURIES

The Wings, who were scheduled to gather in their nearby Toledo hideaway late Wednesday afternoon, did not escape the sixth game without injuries as has been the case throughout the series.

Veteran defenceman Warren Godfrey's elbow needed treatment and rookie Bob Dillabough's knee was hurt. Both players, called up from Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League for the series, have been standouts.

Marcel Pronovost, a senior defenceman, finished the game with nine stitches in his upper lip after taking a puck in the face in the opening period.

BARKLEY READY?

However, Abel was hoping defenceman Doug Barkley, whose loss to the team for one game took its toll, would be ready for the final game. Barkley was released from hospital Tuesday. He'd suffered a concussion Sunday after crashing into the boards, and he jarred his shoulder, which remains painful.

The Hawks, who arrived here following Tuesday's game, remained untroubled by injuries.

Canadiens Call Up Blueliners

MONTREAL (UPI)—Defencemen Bryan Watson of the Quebec Aces and Jean Gauthier of the Omaha Knights were called up Wednesday by Montreal Canadiens to replace injured Jacques Laperriere.

"They'll both practice with the team tomorrow and Friday and we'll make a decision then on which player will dress," general manager Sam Pollock said Wednesday.

Laperriere suffered a broken ankle in the third period of Tuesday's series clinching 4-3 overtime victory over the Maple Leafs in Toronto. The victory gave the Canadiens a 4-3 edge in the best of seven Stanley Cup semi-final series and advanced them to the finals against the winner of the Detroit-Chicago series, currently tied at 3-3.

"There's not the slightest chance he'll be able to play again this season," said forum physiotherapist Bill Head.

Laperriere flew back to Montreal Wednesday afternoon after being hospitalized overnight in Toronto.

Cuban Plays Pimp

Police Columnist, Victoria
Thursday, April 13, 1965

TORONTO — Two famed police officers believe that Léo Rivard, escaped dope-smuggling suspect, may be in Mexico. The reports follow an announcement by Mario Rivard that he had received a letter from her husband postmarked Barcelona, Spain.

"Mexico seems the most likely place," said Jean-Jacques Marc, head of Interpol, from Paris. "With Rivard's connections it could be years before we pinch him."

"Mexico is a good bet because it has no extradition treaty with Canada or the United States," says C. W. Harrison, former head of the RCMP.

MIAMI (UPI) — A refugee just returned from playing "pimp" in Cuba said Wednesday he travelled across the island disguised as a militiaman and a farm peasant while soldiers and secret police hunted for him in vain.

"Castro can be overthrown because there are anti-Castroites everywhere in Cuba," said Ernesto de la Torre Coello, who spent six months on the island. Coello, whose wife and other relatives in Havana were arrested when secret police failed to catch him, said he and three others went back to Cuba last Oct. 13 in a 23-foot boat.

TWO CAPTURED — Two of them were captured as they went ashore at the once famous Varadero beach resort, he said. Coello and an 18-year-old youth who said his name was Mascot escaped by joining militia units searching for them.

"Castro personally took command of those militia," Coello said. "But it didn't do him any

Cameron Heads Plywood Group

Victoria Plywood Ltd. executive Newton D. Cameron Tuesday was elected head of B.C.'s Plywood Manufacturers Association.

The 48-year-old Victoria-born businessman succeeds G. R. McKay of Vancouver as president of the 12-member association.

A graduate of Stanford University, Mr. Cameron has been with Cameron Lumber Co. Ltd., Sooke Lake Lumber Ltd., and G. B. Mirdle Ltd., all of Victoria.

Sidney Seeks Sewer Costs

An estimated cost for placing sewer mains along Malaview to Patricia Bay Highway, Ardwell Road, Beaufort and Henry Avenue was asked by Sidney village commission this week.

The commission also asked parks committee chairman L. A. Christian to check into building a boat ramp at the bottom of Weiler Avenue at the entrance to Tullista Park.

day when a trafficking charge was read in city magistrate's court.

The men, Norman Bradley of Prince George and Robert Paul of Vancouver, first appeared in court March 31.

The 27-year-old Bradley, a former Victorian, elected trial in a higher court. Paul elected trial by magistrate and reserved his plea.

Magistrate William Ostler at the time set bail at $2,500 for Bradley and $1,500 for Paul.

Special prosecutor Rodney Taylor Wednesday applied to withdraw the charge and substitute another.

Magistrate Ostler said the question of withdrawal had better wait until today when defence counsel would be present, but he had no objection to the new charge being read.

Bradley and Paul were accused under the new charge of possessing narcotics for trafficking purposes.

They were remanded until today without election.

Magistrate Ostler said that because the new charge was a more serious one, he was increasing Bradley's bail to $7,000 and Paul's to $5,000.

Attractive brunette Sharon Rose Dien, 1296 Tolmie, pleaded guilty to shoplifting from the Hudson's Bay Company.

She was stopped at the entrance to the women's washroom by a store detective who saw her take a $7.98 pale blue slip from a lingerie counter and hide it under her coat.

She was remanded until April 22 for sentence.

In Sooke court Tuesday, Robert W. Jampolski of Metcho-sin was remanded until April 20 for sentence after pleading guilty to stealing tools worth more than $50 from a wrecked truck.

The theft occurred March 25 on Sooke Road while the driver was away from the vehicle in search of police and a wrecker.

Cake Costs Two Months

For Albert McLennan, 446 Bay, a 99-cent bottle of vanilla extract equalled two months out of his life.

McLennan pleaded guilty in city magistrate's court Wednesday to stealing the bottle from a grocery store on Pandora.

He told Magistrate Ostler he wanted the vanilla for a friend who had promised to bake him a cake.

After hearing McLennan had a record that included convictions for theft, assault and vagrancy, the magistrate sentenced him to two months imprisonment.

For Health Centre

Ottawa Gives UBC $100,000 Grant

OTTAWA (CP) — Payment of $100,000 towards the design and construction of a health sciences centre and hospital at the University of British Columbia and approval of a $43,541 grant to help cover the costs of improved facilities at Vancouver's St. Paul's Hospital were announced Wednesday. The university grant is the first instalment of a $4,000,000 federal loan.

The centre will provide training facilities for doctors, dentists, pharmacists, physiotherapists, occupational therapists, social workers and psychologists, as well as extensive research facilities and a 410-bed hospital.

The construction program at St. Paul's Hospital includes improvements to the dining room and kitchen area, the power plant, relocation of the blood bank and provisions for an additional nurse's station.

Parents Plead With Fugitive

VANCOUVER (CP)—The parents of penitentiary fugitive Clifford Olson appealed to him Wednesday to surrender.

His parents, who have moved to a secret address so their son won't find them, said in a newspaper interview they do not believe he is dangerous.

Olson escaped April 8 from three guards at Shaughnessy Hospital where he had been taken for treatment from the B.C. Penitentiary where he was serving 3½ years for breaking and entering.

ELUDED POLICE Tuesday night he slipped through lines of policemen who were closing in on an east end house where he and another man were hiding out.

The two men—who police said were both armed—ran to a car and disappeared into the traffic. Police did not shoot when the men ignored an order to stop, because bystanders might have been hurt.

Olson's father, Clifford Olson Sr., said: "I'd like him to give himself up, but he knows what he's facing. He might have to serve 18 years."

ARMED ROBBERY

Olson has been charged in absentia with the armed robbery Monday of a supermarket.

"If he doesn't give himself up, I hope they get him before he does something really bad. He's done enough bad already," he said.

Yale in 1965 boasted two "good hotels"—the Fort Yale and California House.

 MONTREAL (UPI) — The angry mob of depositors who stormed a Royal Bank of Canada branch in Montreal Tuesday, was a somewhat controlled group of customers Wednesday, as the loss figures were being slowly tallied.

 A well-calculated robbery Sunday night by selective thieves who rifled about 540 safety deposit boxes of cash and jewelry, netted anywhere between $800-000 and $2,500,000.

 John C. McMillan, the bank's district supervisor, said it would be impossible to even hazard a guess as to the loss in the deposit boxes. "It will take at least a week to compile the value from the confusion," McMillan said.

 Before any estimate could be made, he added a complete listing of the losses would have to be made with sworn affidavits from the customers and this was being done as quickly as possible.

ADDED STAFF

 Mr. McMillan said the branch had at least 30 extra personnel on bank duty to help clear the claimants' statements. Inspectors, senior staff officers and regular employees have been working long hours in an effort to complete the loss claims.

 One safety deposit box holder,
 Pierre Gaudriol, who lost money, a $500-diamond ring and valuable documents, was asked whether he will resume his rental of a safety deposit with the same bank, he answered
 "Why not?—give them another chance."

 One woman customer said she had lost more than $3,000 in Canadian and Israeli bonds, while other women were not so much concerned with the money lost, but other items of sentimental value that cannot be replaced.
 Another woman, in tears, lamented the loss of her children's bonds, while yet another sobbed about the loss of her marriage contract.

 Mr. McMillan said, "It's business as usual, we have all the staff on hand the building can hold. We have a reward of $25-000 offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the robbers."

 BOGALUSA, La. (AP) — A white man was under charges today of assault with a blackjack on James Farmer, national director of the Congress Of Racial Equality.

 Three other white men also have been charged in connection with incidents growing out of a Negro civil rights march here last Friday, led by Negro leader Farmer.

 The arrests were made Tuesday night but were announced Wednesday by Bogalusa Mayor
 Jesse H. Cutrer.

TWO CHARGES

 Randall C. Pounds, 39, of the Bogalusa area, was charged with the assault on Farmer. He is also charged with disturbing the peace, Cutrer said. The mayor said Pounds had the blackjack raised, but did not actually strike Farmer.

 Bill Alford, 30, Bogalusa, was charged with battery on Robert Price, Negro.

 Charles McClendon, 33, and Latimore McNeese, 35, both of Bogalusa, were charged with disturbing the peace during Friday's march.

Pensions, Medicare

'We're Hobbled'

 VANCOUVER (CP)—Senator
 Wallace McEachern said Wednesday Canada's potential for growth is hobbled by too many old bogies.

 He rejected in a speech to the B.C. Institute of Chartered Accountants the idea that Canada will be strengthened by buying back foreign ownership of Canadian industry.

 Doing so, he said, "is not going to create a single new job."

 The Toronto Conservative, who was minister of trade and commerce in the Disraeli government before its defeat in 1963, also criticized the Canada Pension Plan passed by Parliament this year and the medical care program suggested by a royal commission.

 "The reallocation of funds from the private to the public sector would decrease significantly the financial resources available for private investment, and it would increase our reliance on foreign sources of capital," he said.

 It is wrong to commit all our resources to one or two fields when we have not even had an opportunity to establish or ex-

Canada Admits Boy —After 16 Years

 TORONTO (UPI) — Canada took more than 10 years to open its doors to the little Chinese boy, but Ma Ka Yeung is home with his Canadian parents at last.

 He came as an Easter package from Hong Kong for Mr. and Mrs. Harry Loo, a Chinese Christian couple here, who adopted him 16½ years ago, but only met him for the first time

 Wednesday night.

 Loo, 61, and his wife Jean, 42, arranged a Hong Kong adoption contract, known as "The red deed of giving away son"—in 1954 to adopt the boy when he was only a few months old, but ran into mountains of red tape when they attempted to bring the child into Canada.

 The Loo's, who are now both Canadian citizens, entered a barrage of applications over the past 10 years, appealing for help to a succession of governments and immigration ministers. The way was cleared in March when the federal cabinet intervened.

City Denies 'Semi-Slum' Claim

By A. H. MURPHY
Charges that the 1300 block Government is being discriminated against and classified as a "semi-slum" were denied at city hall Wednesday.

So said a spokesman for the special projects office... the department in charge of city beautification.

ALL BUT ONE
He said only one proprietor in the block has not applied for participation in the "Paint-up 65" campaign designed to brighten and revitalize the downtown area.

Special projects chief Roderick Clack said the 1300 block was outside the area receiving special attention in phase two of the paint-up plan, but no one who applied for assistance at city hall has ever been turned down.

A complaining letter, considered recently at a city council committee meeting, was from Mrs. Edith C. Worthington of Ainslie Worthington Agencies, which controls a section comprising about half the 1300 block Government.

"Mrs. Worthington came to us earlier and claimed discrimination under the paint-up plan," said Mr. Clack Wednesday. "We assured her this was not the case."

"Although the boundaries of the second phase of the plan had been arbitrarily set as far back as last year, other occupants of the block have requested paint-up assistance."

"Plans for other buildings in the block have been processed by our office," said Mr. Clack. "Mrs. Worthington was told earlier the office would be only too pleased to provide a color scheme for the Worthington Agency building," Mr. Clack added. That still held.

"We don't turn anybody down."

Four Days at Discotheque

CBC Classics Here Tonight

The CBC Classics are coming to Uncle Jake's Discotheque in Victoria tonight.

"This is a new policy," said Uncle Tony Elise. "It's the first time we will have gone live."

But the mood will be the same. The Classics as teen-agers across Canada who watch the show all know, play rhythm and blues, rock and roll.

Sax man Clare Lawrence is also a member of the Don Thompson jazz quintet featured on CBC-TV Saturday nights.

appearance will mean a 40-cent an-hour levy for the teen-agers compared to the 25-cent-an-hour "record" price.

Mr. Elise said he plans similar "in person" performances by various orchestras every second of third weekend.

Army at Sea

The navy took Greater Victoria army and militia personnel for a familiarization cruise around the approaches to Esquimalt harbor Tuesday in the navy's 80-foot sailing yacht, HMCS Oriole.

Log Punk Named President

VANCOUVER (CP)—James Sheagreen, once a whistle punk in the Vancouver Island woods, was elected Wednesday as president of the Canadian Forestry Association of B.C.

He succeeded W. H. McMahon at the annual association meeting. Mr. Sheagreen was a whistle punk in an Oyster River logging camp years ago, later became a logger and is a past president of the Pacific Logging Congress.

Scaling Exams

Forester Saves Wet Tradition

PORT ALBERNI — They say there's a tradition that someone always takes a dive, literally, during logging which involves a boom.

The tradition was upheld here recently when the first scalers' exams held in this district for 30 years were conducted by H. L. Coles, superintendent of scaling for the B.C. Forest Service.

Nine Forest Service personnel from Victoria and 24 other candidates from the Campbell River, Cowichan Lake and Alberni Valley areas took the practical and theoretical exams.

One of the Victoria men fell off the boom but Mr. Coles did not say if a fall in the chuck affects a candidate's marks.

He did say those who are successful in the exams will be officially licensed as scalers and he hopes the tests would be held here each year in future.

Looks Ahead at 73

Minister to Study War And Church Attitude

TORONTO (CP)—Very Rev. James Ralph Mutchmor, one of Canada's most controversial and colorful Protestant churchmen, says he plans to spend the next few years studying the relationship between war and the church's attitude to it.

Dr. Mutchmor, moderator of the United Church of Canada general council from 1962 to 1964, held a tea-and-coffee reception here Wednesday as the book, Mutchmor, goes on sale across Canada Saturday.

From 1936 until his election as moderator, Dr. Mutchmor served as secretary of the United Church board of evangelism and social service. He was often described as "a prophet out of the west" (Winnipeg) and "the only old ranting Methodist still in eruption," although he came from Presbyterian stock on Northern Ontario's Manitoulin Island in Lake Huron.

Newspapering 73, Dr. Mutchmor chuckled at a suggestion by Rev. Earl Kulbeck, public relations officer for the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada, that he try to get a seat in the Senate as an independent.

"I understand senators retire at 75," Dr. Mutchmor said. "I really don't know anything about the Senate. Besides, I haven't been asked."

Among observations and comments Dr. Mutchmor makes in his memoirs are:

1. "I always tried to keep a course of action determined by good sense and good humor."
2. "Press reports (about him) were sometimes erroneous, but I never complained. . . . More often than not they (reporters) gave me the benefit of the doubt. On the whole, they were competent and fair. . . ."
3. "I have always found it hard to follow ecclesiastical 'gobbledygook.'"
4. The United Nations is "man's second stumbling attempt after international honor and goodwill. . . . We live in a power-mad world. . . . Men stand in fear of a handful of dust. . . . The UN does not have the answer. The new spirit of Christian unity and ecumenical organization is the chief ground of hope. . . ."
5. "Much of the welcome co-operation between Roman Catholic and Protestant churches derives from Rome's search for new allies to help stem the flood of communism."

Of Foxes

Friend Turns Hunter

LONDON (AP)—A former leader of Britain's anti-fox hunters said Wednesday he had been wrong.

"I now believe that until something better comes along fox hunting is the best way of controlling foxes," he said.

Not only did Norman Redman, 29, renounce the League Against Cruel Sports. He added insult to injury by going fox hunting on Tuesday with the Crawley and Horeham fox hounds.

BORED, JEERED

Dressed in cavalry twill trousers, a hacking jacket and a riding hat, Redman was jeered and jeered by his former friends, members of the West Sussex Hunt Saboteurs.

A year ago Redman was arrested and fined £25 ($75) for actively sabotaging a fox hunt in Sussex.

Redman said he changed his mind after doing research on fox hunting and talking to fox hunters.

Teachers To Fight Arbitration

VANCOUVER (CP)—Arbitration as a means of settling salary disputes between teachers and school trustees is in for heavy criticism next week at the annual convention of the B.C. Teachers' Association.

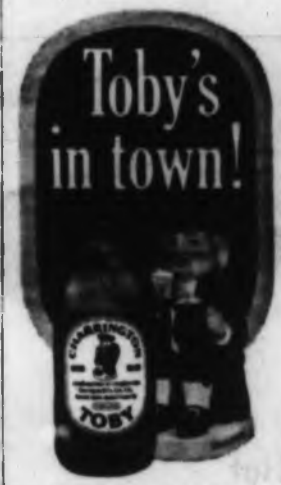

The Burnaby Teachers' Association will ask the BCTF to "urge its members to refrain from applying for positions in districts with arbitrated salary schedules."

The request is contained in one of 68 resolutions to be considered by 12,000 delegates to the four-day convention which opens Monday.

A renewed bid for a uniform salary scale in B.C. will be made by the Abbotsford District Teachers' Association. School trustees have successfully opposed a move in past years. Arbitration is again cited as one of the reasons why such a uniform salary scale is needed.

Strike at Cemeteries

Funerals But No Burials

VANCOUVER (CP)—Burial services are held daily at Vancouver's two major cemeteries, but no burials take place.

Laws go uncut, and almost all maintenance work has stopped.

And outside Forest Lawn Memorial Park Limited and Ocean View Burial Park Limited, striking cemetery workers mount picket lines every day but Sunday.

The men are members of Local 602, Construction and General Laborers Union (CLC), and they dispute with the management of the jointly-owned cemeteries on just one issue.

MEMBERSHIP

The union wants all future outside employees of the cemeteries to join the union within 30 days of being hired—and management describes this demand as "totally unacceptable."

Picket lines went up April 2, after the breakdown of negotiations that started late last summer.

Other cemeteries in the Vancouver area have been doing no more business than usual, and officials say they don't expect to do any more. There has been no increase in cremations.

Mourners visit both cemeteries regularly.

Malcolm Ferguson, vice president of Forest Lawn, said Wednesday there are 45 bodies in storage in the mortuaries at the two cemeteries.

"When the strike is over, they'll be buried," he said.

Joe Desaulnier, business agent for Local 602, says the picket lines are effective because "there haven't been any burials."

Mr. Desaulnier says 18 of the 29 cemetery workers affected by the dispute are union men, "but there's now a union men picket line along the union birth-ers."

He said 26 of the 29 voted to strike.

All 29 pay union dues, but the non-union men still will not be required to join if the union wins this dispute. "Only future employees will be affected," says Mr. Desaulnier.

Within the last few days, both sides have bought newspaper display advertising to promote their stands.

A management advertisement said the strikers are causing "unnecessary distress to many bereaved families"—which was quoted a few days later in a union advertisement, and described as the responsibility of management.

Long-Time Printer Albert Shields Dies

Funeral services will be held in Hayward's chapel at 1:30 p.m. Saturday for Albert Roy Shields, 71, a printer with the Victoria Daily Times for 55 years, who died Wednesday in his home at 1321 Camosun. A native of Victoria, he started work for the Times at 14 and retired two years ago. He was due to receive his 50-year button with the printers' union of Columbia Lodge, AF & AM, and the IOOF No. 2.

University Grants Announced

Victoria Gets $1,000,000 More

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

University of Victoria will get $1,000,000 more in operating grants from the government this year than it did last year, Education Minister Leslie Peterson said Wednesday.

The $18,500,000 provided by the government for the operation of B.C.'s three public universities in the 1965 fiscal year will be split up this way:

University of B.C. gets $12,894,000; Victoria gets $3,295,000; and Simon Fraser $2,311,000.

Mr. Peterson said he notified the universities of the amounts last week. He announced the split after receiving the recommendations of the advisory board set up for the purpose.

The minister wouldn't say if he adopted the precise figures recommended by the board.

Total operating grants are up $4,400,000 over last year, Mr. Peterson said. They do not include capital construction costs.

UBC got $1,800,000 more than last year's operating grants from the government. The University of Victoria grant for operation is up $1,000,000. And Simon Fraser, which opens its doors Sept. 1, is a new addition to the university scene.

Despite Big Grant

University Canvassing
Cost-Cutting Means

University of Victoria president Dr. Malcolm Taylor said Wednesday the $3,295,000 operating grant still will mean many possibilities must be canvassed to raise money and cut costs at the university.

"We are determined not to raise fees unless we have to," said Dr. Taylor, commenting on announcement of the operating grant by Education Minister Leslie Peterson.

Dr. Taylor pointed out the transition from two-year college to four-year university is a very expensive one.

"Obviously the years we are adding now, third and fourth year, are the most expensive for the university."

He said the university is not adequately staffed to meet the needs of third and fourth year education.

Thirty-five new faculty members must be added this year to keep up with the increase in students.

"We are canvassing all the possibilities, we are looking into projects that can be put off, costs that can be cut," said Dr. Taylor.

Civic Visit

Journey

Included in the B.C. contingent to the convention of the Union of Quebec Municipalities in May will be the mayor, six aldermen, one city official and six wives from Victoria.

Ald. Austin Curtis will be acting mayor while Mayor Wilson is away and he will be backed up by Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood. City Manager Dennis Young, originally scheduled to go, has withdrawn.

Original plan was for seven aldermen and two city officials to make the trip. But during the consideration of city estimates it was decided to take another look at the $8,400 allocated for expenses.

The city, however, will still be taking care of most of the expenses incurred on the trip which is being made in response to the visit to Victoria last November of 300 Quebec mayors and civic officials.

The B.C. contingent will number about 300.

Objective

A total of $83,845.16 was collected in the annual Victoria and District Red Cross drive, well over the $82,000 goal.

"We are very pleased with the results and are grateful to all who have helped us," a spokesman said.

Strong Control
With Freeway

Stranger land development control would become necessary with the building of a freeway on the Saanich peninsula, a meeting of the Association of Women Electors was told Wednesday night.

Anthony Roberts, director of the Capital Region Planning Board, was speaking on a recently-completed capital region transportation study.

He said a freeway on the peninsula would create quick access and could lead to a sprawl form of development if strict controls were not exercised.

COULD LOSE AREA

"Otherwise it could lead to the loss of this rural area," Mr. Roberts said.

He said the pattern of development toward the north was tending to place downtown Victoria farther away from the geographical centre of the Greater Victoria area.

VIA JAMES BAY

But if the north-south freeway plan was followed it would bring traffic from the north, bypassing the city and back into Victoria via James Bay.

The plan calls for a freeway to bypass the city, crossing the Gorge and Victoria Harbor, bringing northbound traffic into Victoria from the south.

"This proposal would enable motorists to travel their 40 miles an hour to within a stone's throw of downtown Victoria," he said.

Banks Not Responsible

Victorians Share Risk
In Deposit Box Theft

Victorians would be in the same boat as Montrealers if their safety deposit boxes are robbed.

Tuesday the Royal Bank of Canada in Montreal announced it would not be responsible for loot taken from some 450 safety deposit boxes riddled by thieves in a $1,000,000 robbery Sunday night.

Victoria safety deposit boxes are not insured, though this can be arranged through an insurance company, said R. K. Boyle of the Bank of Nova Scotia Wednesday.

He said the liability clause was included in the written agreement between lessee and the bank.

"The boxes get the same protection the bank securities get: you can't ask for more than that," he added.

A bank manager explained the bank could "hardly" insure the boxes because "we don't know what is inside."

"We don't have the right of access and it is impossible to insure them if you don't know what is in them," he added.

He'll Head Parade

Four-year-old Paul Venturin meets eight-foot rabbit Harvey from Eaton's who will lead children's parade through downtown area Saturday as part of Victoria Spring Flower Festival. About 300 costumed children from six to 14 will march from Centennial Square to Memorial Arena by way of business district. Parade will be held in arena if it is raining. —(Bud Kinsman)

Scenic Routes

Discs Will Replace
Tours' Yellow Line

The yellow line used to identify scenic routes in the city will be replaced by a system of adhesive, yellow, circular pads placed alongside a white centre line.

The pads, six inches in diameter, will have a reflector-like quality and will be spaced at intervals of 30 feet.

The system has met with the approval of engineers of adjacent municipalities who recommend the change to their respective councils.

Traffic authorities say that although 30 feet seems a wide interval of spacing, it will appear almost a continuous line to the motorist travelling at normal speeds.

Art from Orient
Shown at Gallery

An exhibition of Chinese and Japanese works of art will be formally opened today at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

Recently donated to the permanent collection by Mrs. Fred Pollard of San Francisco, the collection includes nine brush drawings by a 19th century Japanese master, a landscape painting by Keng Kuan, rare 18th century Japanese woodcuts and Japanese porcelain.

Expanded Dental Clinic

Additional staff will be taken on later this year.

The clinic was reopened to mark the 50th anniversary of the Canadian Dental Corps.

Exchange of Eggs at Easter Goes Back to Pagan Times

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
NEW YORK, (UPI)—No need to call out the riot squad when staging an Easter egg hunt for toddlers.

Just fix things so the youngsters can string along.

Place one end of string or ribbon at a starting point—say front door. Then wind the ribbon over the lawn, around trees, up in branches, under shrubs, ending up at the jackpot where the eggs are hidden.

Along the way hide other goodies—candy, toys, Easter baskets. If the weather is inclement, run the ribbon throughout the house instead.

Here's how to make the eggs worth searching for. Start with clean white ones and immerse them gently for 20 minutes in water to cover. Plunge them then into cold water, drain and air dry.

The tips, from the makers of Easter egg coloring kits, are coupled with this caution: Don't handle the eggs too much. Skin contact tends to make them dye-resistant.

Follow directions for coloring. Use the cute decals, western dress-ups and wax crayon for dolling up the dyed eggs.

For chic eggs, add glitter, sequins, lace, ribbons, braid, stars or any other trimming material. The hard-cooked eggs will remain good-to-eat at room temperature for three days. If refrigerated, they ought to be good for up to 10 days.

Easter eggs traditionally are associated with glad tidings and the joy and wonder at the rebirth of life—as in nature at spring-time.

Long before the coming of Christ, pagan peoples exchanged eggs as tokens of friendship during spring festivals.

The Egyptians, in the fifth century before Christ, probably were the first to begin dyeing eggs and the earliest color used was red.

PERSONAL MENTION

By Dorothy Wrotnowski

A large white rabbit gussied up with pink parasol and pink posies sat on the mantel above the fireplace at the Yacht Club yesterday, keeping a watchful eye on the bridge players at the YM-YWCA Spring Bonnet Bridge lunch.

The flowers were beautiful, both the real and artificial, and were mostly pink with greenery. On the main verandah an enormous bouquet arranged with lots of sword ferns was suspended from the ceiling. Most effective.

It must have been very satisfying for Mrs. John A. Wallace and Mrs. D. L. Telford, convener and co-convener, that the affair turned out to be so successful. When I left, the estimate was more than $450. This is undoubtedly earmarked for the new building.

Doreen Wallace was looking like spring itself in a daffodil yellow and white print silk dress, yellow linen coat and matching straw hat, black banded and a wisp of black veiling. But she did have slacks and running shoes out in her car ready for the clean-up job later.

Mrs. Logan Mayhew, long time worker for the Y, Mrs. Alan MacFarlane, Mrs. J. Williams and Mrs. H. Hallett were at the door and committee chairmen helping everywhere were Mrs. A. J. Avery, Mrs. J. S. Wilson, Mrs. P. C. Meredith and Mrs. P. A. Stocks.

Before the bridge got serious, Mrs. George Whelan announced the winners of the winter Y bridge marathon who were on hand to receive their prizes. They were first, Mrs. E. Chard and Mrs. B. Flury; second, Mrs. G. Davis and Mrs. E. Benson, who also got a prize for the most small slams; third, Mrs. J. Bransby and Mrs. A. Wright, and for the most grand slams, Mrs. D. Emery and Mrs. B. Markham. Mrs. H. Mann and Mrs. J. Wintemute.

Mrs. Wheaton who was wearing a deep blue silk suit and lighter toned blue flowered small hat also presented the door prizes. The spring bonnet went to Mrs. G. S. Ford who said she didn't think the hat

Dancers Praised

Miss Mara McKinney of Vancouver was adjudicator of the Upper Island Musical and Dance Festival held at Nanaimo.

Winners in the Folk and National dance classes were Heather Laura Munro, Roxanne Eden, Wendie Allnutt, Mary Jo Carpenter, Debra Lynn Holmes, Rickie Eden, Twyla Bailey and Jackie Penke.

In group dancing, high praise was given to the three Scottish Country Dance Groups.

BJH ALUMNAE
A social evening of "bingo" will be held for members and friends of the Alumnae Association of Royal Jubilee Hospital, at 8 p.m., April 15, in the Nurses' Residence.

PRO PATRIA LA
Ladies' Auxiliary to Pro Patria Branch 21, Royal Canadian Legion, will meet at 7:45 p.m., April 20, at 635 Courtney Street.

Mrs. Howard McKay wasn't the only one to forget to bring cards but she was the last one to get one of the extra packs. Mrs. McKay chose a black and white striped suit and white hat, brimmed and banded in red was the choice of Mrs. E. L. Young and one of the prettiest hats in the room was worn by Mrs. C. L. Nelson. It was a bright, almost coral pink with large pink flowers and it matched her dress perfectly.

Among others at the party were Mrs. Jack Edmison, Mrs. Chris Moore, Mrs. Jack Todd, Mrs. Gerry Bryson, Mrs. M. Gowan, Mrs. Walter Stenier, Mrs. Ken Lawson, Mrs. Ronald Newell, Mrs. Allan Dayanith, Mrs. Len Acres, Mrs. H. Hawkins, Mrs. E. S. Olson, Mrs. Norman Dutton, Mrs. Mary Campbell, Mrs. Bruce Brown, Mrs. H. E. Turner, Mrs. Justin Harbord, Mrs. Clyde Savage, Mrs. Roland Hall, Mrs. George Burrell, Mrs. Joan Ellis, Mrs. Joan Terry.

Every spring hundreds of Victorians and other visitors go out to the bulb farms in the country, some to buy and others just to look. This flower festival week, there is a special treat in store. Every day a bus leaves Centennial Square at 2 p.m. and stops at such interesting places as the Experimental Farm, Harbour Crest Nurseries of African Violets and the glorious display of narcissus, hyacinths and tulips at Beaumaris Bulb Farm at Ardmore. At the latter place the visitors are served tea by the various groups from Holy Trinity Church. Yesterday afternoon it was the Hall Guild with Mrs. Frank James, Mrs. Ernest Harris, Mrs. A. M. Naismith, Mrs. Alfred Atkinson in charge. Owners and operators of Beaumaris, Mr. and Mrs. Gwyn Owen show the visitors around the beautiful grounds and just generally make them welcome.

Mrs. Conrad Winner

It was vice-president's night at Victoria Toastmistress Club No. 88 at the Colonial Inn, and the vice-president Mrs. E. Conrad won the spot for her contribution to the evening. The Oscar for the best speech of the evening went to Miss Donalda Lantz for her speech "A ladder to successful living."

A discussion of the value of conventions was led by topic mistress Mrs. H. E. Rasmussen, who was introduced by Mrs. P. A. Petersen. Those taking part were Mrs. J. R. Pipes, Mrs. T. Grant, Mrs. K. S. Baines, and Mrs. A. King.

Mrs. Petersen introduced toastmistress Mrs. D. L. Brown, whose theme was "Signs of the Zodiac." Readings were given by Mrs. J. J. Wiart, by Mrs. W. H. Davies. Mrs. Baines was the timer and the lexicologist was Mrs. Rasmussen. The critic was Mrs. Grant and the vote of thanks was given by Mrs. Petersen.

'Dollar Store' Prices Cut

MOSCOW (CP) — The little Muscovite women with the shopping bags they always carry approach the smartly-appointed grocery store and gaze at it in wonder and uncertain expectation.

They watch foreigners step out of diplomatic limousines and swagger into the store with a proprietary air. But if the Muscovite women try to enter themselves they are motioned away by a sharp-eyed man posted just inside the door, whose job it is to separate foreigners from Russians. If they don't get the message their attention is drawn to a sign in the vestibule of the store listing 14 convertible currencies accepted there. Russian money is not one of them. This is Moscow's swankiest shopping establishment opened Feb. 10 and already dubbed "the dollar store." It represents an attempt by the Soviets to capture some of the hundreds of thousands of dollars in foreign exchange spent annually by Moscow-based foreigners in export houses abroad, notably in Copenhagen, Stockholm and Helsinki.

To compete, the store offers prime Russian foods at a fraction of the amount they cost Soviet citizens. Many products are available at the store—such as bananas and fresh pineapple —which are seldom seen in city shopping places. In addition to Russian products the establishment also sells foreign liquor and tobacco; American cigarettes cost 20 kopecks a pack.

The sales girls, smartly dressed in blue-and-white or pink-and-white uniforms, are polite and accommodating. At most Moscow stores, rudeness is a trademark of sales personnel.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Griffiths, who were married 60 years ago in Penetanguishene, Ontario, will be honor guests when their daughters, Mrs. R. C. Cameron of McBride, B.C., and Mrs. H. W. Turner of Springwater, Sask., entertain at an open house Tuesday, April 20. The couple will receive their many friends at their home, 1027 Sutlej Street, from 7:30 to 10 p.m. A family dinner has also been planned to mark the occasion. Before coming to Victoria in 1947, Mr. and Mrs. Griffiths lived in Saskatchewan for 38 years. They have eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.—(Campbell Studio)

Nylons and Beads Needed For Diocesan Board Work

Mrs. J. A. Andrews, Diocesan secretary, made an appeal for broken beads and nylon stockings when the Diocesan Board of the Women's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church met in St. John's hall with Mrs. F. A. Goodwin presiding. The stockings are to be sent to Japanese women who make them into clothing material.

Mrs. Andrews also asked for a Brownie uniform and announced that there was a great deal of used clothing to be distributed.

Mrs. F. Fatt, Camp Columbia, reported a request for 50 mattress covers and said that these would be ready for the June camp.

Treasurer, Mrs. H. R. Dickson, reported receipts of $3,297.04, disbursements totalling $6,898.13 and a bank balance of $15,087.51. In various funds were: Endowment, $414.75; care of elderly, $5,789.36; and legacy, $17,051.06. Members voted $75 toward cost of hospital bulletins.

Mrs. N. W. Life, educational secretary, reported on a workshop she had attended at Campbell River where there were 42 present, with members coming from Manson's Landing, Cumberland, Comox and Courtenay. She announced that workshops would be held in Victoria, on either Monday or Tuesday.

Mrs. T. Hughes announced that the May meeting of the Prayer Partners' secretaries was cancelled.

Miss Jessie Millar was guest speaker, being introduced by Miss Jane Leigh, Sidney. She spoke of her 38 years of work in Japan. She is the prayer partner for the Sidney branch.

Three new life members were welcomed. They are Mrs. E. Partridge, Mrs. C. Rutherford and Miss M. E. Schofield.

Miss G. Kensington said that the last shipment of clothing would be shipped to Hong Kong in May. In future, money will be sent as clothes can be bought much cheaper there than here.

Other reports were given by Mrs. F. C. Vaughan-Birch, Mrs. A. Winsor, lunch convener; Mrs. J. H. Newham, Little Helpers' secretary.

Mrs. C. D. Schofield was appointed honorary president and Mrs. R. O. Taylor, honorary vice-president. Honorary executive members are Mrs. H. D. Martin, Mrs. J. D. Vickers and Mrs. B. P. Harding.

Opening prayers were led by Mrs. T. W. Scott while Rev. Colin Campbell conducted noon day prayers. Mrs. D. A. Hock gave a Bible reading and a welcome to the 149 members attending was given by Mrs. Fatt, president of St. John's afternoon branch. Mrs. H. McDonald, first vice-president, led the closing prayer.

MONTREAL (CP)—It's time Canadian mothers gave children back their childhood, says Mrs. Kay Crowe of the Family Life Education Council. She thinks encouraging boys and girls to be popular with the opposite sex from the age of 13 results in "a startling increase" in teen-age marriages and premarital sex.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you will not consider this letter too morbid or indelicate for your column.

Is it true when a person dies his senses go? And is it true that even though a person is in a deep coma, unable to move or talk, he can still hear everything that is being said?

Recently a relative passed away. It made me very uncomfortable to be at the bedside while the funeral arrangements were being made, along with the conversation relating to his finances and speculation about his will. It must be horrible for a dying person to hear such matters discussed by well-meaning folks who mistakenly believe he is too far gone to know anything. Will you print this please?

— RESPECT WANTED FOR ALL

Dear All: It is not what a person hears, but what he comprehends that counts.

A patient may respond to light and touch and sound but these responses are automatic and do not indicate that the brain is translating anything.

If the doctor says the patient is in a coma, it is safe to assume there is no comprehension. Since patients do slip in and out of a comatose state, however, it is best not to discuss funerals, wills and other matters at the bedside.

Dear Ann Landers: I liked your response to the postman's wife whose husband was not appreciated by the people on his route when he performed the extra courtesies, such as paying the postage due out of his own pocket and collecting later — maybe.

We in Anchorage, Alaska, have expressed, both privately and publicly, our gratitude to our postal carriers and we'd like to share with you and your readers the story of their heroism and generosity.

In March of 1964 we had some terrifying earthquakes. Virtually all lines of communication were destroyed, but the mail went through. The first news our families received that we were alive reached them by mail. A special delivery letter arrived at our home two days after the earthquake. It was an invitation from relatives offering a place to live if we needed it.

Our road was gone and many houses on our block were destroyed, but the postman brought the mail. His home was damaged, too. He had no heat or water, but he was on the job.

We have let our postmen know how much we appreciate them, but it would be very generous of you to print a word under "confidential" in your column. Will you? — ALASKAN SOURDOUGH.

Dear All: I'd rather do more than that, so I'm printing your letter — every word of it.

Dear Ann Landers: After exchanging Christmas gifts for several years I am very hurt because a friend accepted my gift, thanked me profusely and made no mention that she did not intend to reciprocate as usual. (Finances were not a factor here.)

I believe she should have told me several weeks before Christmas that she no longer wished to exchange gifts. I would not then have bought her a gift and could have spent a similar amount on an orphan or someone who might not receive much at Christmas time. Do you agree? — POST-HOLIDAY GRIPE.

Dear Post: I doubt that you would have felt more kindly toward the woman had she telephoned and said she wished to put an end to the gift giving.

It's always difficult to terminate a practice which has become traditional. However, it sounds as if this friendship was dangling by a thread — gift or no gift.

Employers Welcome Women Executives

KARACHI (Reuters) — Less than ten years ago, there was hardly one woman in an executive position in industry or commerce in Pakistan. Today, there are 20, all graduates of the University of Karachi's Institute of Business Administration.

Though not spectacular progress, perhaps, it is still spectacular enough for Pakistan where women have a long way to go to win the freedom enjoyed by their sisters in the West.

There now are immense job opportunities for women in this developing country, and more and more girls are entering the institute for degree courses or much more popular, to take evening courses for diplomas or certificates.

Girls, graduating from the institute have won positions carrying monthly salaries ranging from 500 to 1,500 rupees, $106 to $320. While such salaries are not large by Western standards, they are much better than the average office wage here.

Not one of the 20 girls graduated from the institute since its inception in 1955 is out of a job. This year, there are 12 girls in the diploma and certificate course compared with four in the degree course.

While most Pakistani girls still feel their place is in the home after marriage, the intrepid few who are setting the pattern of active participation in the country's development are sought after by employers just as much as men are.

The Indoor Start

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRMS

If you haven't written in for your free mignonette seeds yet, I suggest you get cracking and mail that letter or coupon during the long weekend ahead.

I thought I had an ample supply of these hard-to-get seeds from France, but they have been going out of here at a fantastic clip, and if I run out of the imported seeds, I may have to substitute seeds of the ordinary home-grown kind for the late-comers.

The unusual response to this particular seed offer seems to point up a hunger for fragrance in our flowers, for many of our most glamorous modern hybrid blooms are completely without scent. Mignonette, and particularly the perfume industry's special strain I obtained in France, is rich in fragrance, and the plants are useful not only in the garden, but as cut flowers in the house and as potted houseplants to bring scent into the home.

Even the most obvious scents are difficult to describe in words, and I find it almost impossible to convey the peculiar quality of the mignonette aroma. There is a touch of honey to it and a touch of violets, and while it is a refreshing scent, it is definitely sexy and exciting—to some people, disturbingly so.

As one long-dead writer expressed it, the mignonette "exhales such a perfume that maidens blush with expectancy and brides with memory."

Earlier this week I outlined a simple method of sowing your free seeds in the outdoor garden, and today I propose to review an alternative method—the indoor start.

Actually, the only real advantage of starting the seeds in the house is to bring them along a little earlier and to give the tiny seedlings some protection from high winds and the battering rains of spring.

To run over again quickly my favorite method of starting small seeds indoors, use a clay flowerpot—any reasonable size will do. Scrub it thoroughly in hot, soapy water and put an inch of gravel or small pebbles in the bottom for drainage.

Cover the stones with a layer of green moss or a wad of four or five thicknesses of paper towel, then put in your soil. This could be purchased potting soil or a mixture of sifted garden soil, peat moss and coarse sand.

Fill to within half an inch of the pot rim, making the soil very firm and level with the fingers. Water with boiling water, applied very slowly but giving enough to saturate all the soil in the pot. Scatter your seeds very thinly on the muddy surface and cover them with a quarter-inch layer of peat moss. Finally, stretch a sheet of plastic over the top of the pot and hold it in place with a rubber band.

Place the pot in a warm place—I have been having unusual success in germinating seeds under the light and warmth of my desk lamp—and remove the plastic wrap as soon as the first seedlings appear.

Transfer to a sunny window of a coolish room or in an unheated sunporch, and transplant the young plants to their flowering position when two inches tall. Mignonette is not easy to transplant successfully because of its long tap root, so it is important to do the job while the plants are still quite small.

In setting out in their permanent positions, space the plants 10 inches apart each way. If wanted purely for fragrance, nip the growing tip out of each plant when six inches tall; this will make it branch out and grow bushy.

If wanted to supply cut flowers for the house, do not remove the tip but allow it to develop into a single, well-furnished spike of bloom. For growing in pots in the house, three plants can be accommodated in an ordinary four-inch clay pot, or five plants in a five-inch pot.

She's All Ears

Says JACK SMITH

What the average man needs, the activities is especially difficult in itself.

Last Saturday morning, for example, she was in excellent form. She was ironing in the living room. As humble a domestic process as it may seem, I suspect that ironing a man's shirt with a flat iron is not as simple as it looks. It is something like that old parlor trick of revolving the palm of one hand on the top of the head and the other on the diaphragm.

It would be pleasant, Dr. Ramo suggested, to be able to type with one hand, play the piano with another, recite poetry, watch a silent movie and listen to two radio programs, one with each ear, all at the same time.

Maybe I have a remarkable family, but I've seen performance that came pretty close to that. My wife has a multiple activity mind. She is quite capable of doing several things simultaneously, provided none of

The television set was on, but the sound was off.

"Somebody left the TV on," I said. I started to turn it off. "I turned it on," she said. "I thought there might be something amusing."

"Then why don't you turn the sound on?" I asked. "It isn't worth listening to," she said.

"Then why don't you turn it off?" I asked.

"I'm watching it," she explained. "Good Lord!" I said. "Somebody just scored a goal," she advised me. "How'd you know that?" "I heard it," she said. "on Doug's radio."

I went in the kitchen and got a glass of water. I decided I'd better have a beer instead. My nerves were beginning to twitch.

I went back in the living room. "What's the score?" I asked her. "Six to one. I think," she said. "The last time I heard."

The phone rang. I waited. "Can you get that?" she said. "I'm busy."

I felt better. She was human. It was Mrs. Dalton on the phone.

"What's your wife doing?" Mrs. Dalton asked. "She's ironing and watching a movie on TV without any sound and listening to a game and humming La Madoles. I told her. 'I'll call back,' said Mrs. Dalton. She hung up. "I certainly wish," my wife said when I went back in the living room. "they'd settle that mess in Viet Nam. The news is terrible."

There are two kinds of men who can never grow up. They are the "successful failures" of our generation.

Here's a chap who is always asking: "What's in it for me?" Nothing else seems to matter. He is fighting little battles all the time—pushing and shoving.

For him, life is an unending cycle of wars, and he's put to prove that no one can put anything over on him. He will tell you that he is a self-made man; nobody ever did anything for him—why, then, should he do something for anybody.

Tell him of others who live with a more noble attitude, who have given back to the world some of the things that they have taken, and all he asks is: "What's in it for them?"

No man, says he, acts out of selfless love and dedication. One day he will arise to discover that there are things in life which money cannot buy nor power acquire—and on that day he will learn how bankrupt he has been. But that day may well be too late. For, having failed to make regular deposits, he can never have any spiritual balance in the bank of life.

Another man fails to grow up and stays a spiritual pygmy because his life's slogan is summed up in the exhortation: "Work like mad! Play like mad!" He is no man; he is a machine. He does not understand the meaning or purpose of work. He may be an outstanding chairman of personal ways and means, but he short-changes himself when it comes to ends. He tells you he's enjoying himself. But how can he? He doesn't really know the meaning of joy!

He maintains that work is a therapy, and that he loves to be "on the go." But where is he going?

He can never fully appease his handmade, jealous and terrifying duties: the god of hard labor and the god of relaxation. He makes them ends in them-hall.

When he works he cannot relax. When he relaxes he cannot think. He is tired when he should be refreshed; at times, ease when he should be challenged to higher personal fulfillment.

"Work hard, play hard," that's his motto. But when has he the opportunity to think and to read, to contemplate and to study the meaning of life?

He is capable of solving business problems. But can he face his biggest problem—himself? He has been running away from himself all his life, submerging his real self in his hard work and his hard play.

One day he will awake to discover that he can't work or play as hard. Where will he run, then? What strange god will offer him salvation? And how much of himself is really left to be "saved?"

These two stunted successes have been avoiding the real issues of life and have never learned how to face up to them. Though they manage to become material tycoons, starving in death because they never found time to nourish their inner life. They are the real displaced persons of our time, refugees from life, in the very midst of it.

Growth in life as in nature, depends upon our ability to respond to the light—to strain our reach, and in spite of the shadows, to search for moments of illumination. Those who won't grow up have blinded the light. They walk in darkness; blind to truth, stumbling, they must fall.

Some day, in Kierkegaard's picturesque phrase, we will awake to find how dead we have been all along. Why not, then, grow up now, while there is still life to enjoy life!

Songs April 23

Victoria folk singer Murray McAlpine will appear at the 6th Camosun Club and Scout group's hoosmanny at 8 p.m. April 23 in Centennial United Church.

She's All Ears

Says JACK SMITH

What the average man needs, a Dr. Simon Ramo said the other day, is a good, cheap, synthetic brain around the house to handle routine intellectual chores.

The human brain is a dandy little instrument, he conceded, but it tends to bog down when asked to perform several tasks at the same time.

It would be pleasant, Dr. Ramo suggested, to be able to type with one hand, play the piano with another, recite poetry, watch a silent movie and listen to two radio programs, one with each ear, all at the same time.

Maybe I have a remarkable family, but I've seen performance artists that came pretty close to that. My wife has a multiple activity mind. She is quite capable of doing several things simultaneously, provided none of

As humble a domestic process as it may seem, I suspect that ironing a man's shirt with a flat iron is not as simple as it looks. It is something like that old parlor trick of revolving the palm of one hand on the top of the head and the other on the diaphragm.

I had the clock radio turned on in the bedroom to listen to the news of Viet Nam. Our younger son was in the den listening to a sports game on his transistor. When I walked through the living room to go to the kitchen I noticed that my wife was humming La Madelon, an old French song the soldiers used to sing. She always sings it when she irons.

The television set was on, but the sound was off.

"Somebody left the TV on," I said. I started to turn it off.

"I turned it on," she said. "I thought there might be something amusing."

Another man fails to grow up and stays a spiritual pygmy because his life's slogan is summed up in the exhortation: "Work like mad! Play like mad!" He is no man; he is a machine.

He does not understand the meaning or purpose of work. He may be an outstanding chairman of personal ways and means, but he short-changes himself when it comes to ends. He tells you he's enjoying himself. But how can he? He doesn't really know the meaning of joy!

He maintains that work is a therapy, and that he loves to be "on the go!" But where is he going?

They, in turn, make an end of him!

When he works he cannot relax. When he relaxes he cannot think. He is tired when he should be refreshed; at arm's ease when he should be challenged to higher personal fulfillment.

"Work hard, play hard," that's his motto. But when has he the opportunity to think and to read, to contemplate and to study the meaning of life?

He is capable of solving business problems. But can he face his biggest problem—himself? He has been running away from himself all his life, submerging his real self in his hard work and his hard play.

One day he will awake to discover that he can't work or play as hard. Where will he run, then? What strange god will offer him salvation? And how much of himself is really left to be "saved?"

These two stunted successes have been avoiding the real issues of life and have never learned how to face up to them. Though they manage to become material tycoons, they remain spiritual dwarfs, starving to death because they never found time to nourish their inner life. They are the real displaced persons of our time, refugees from life, in the very midst of it.

Growth, in life as in nature, depends upon our ability to respond to the light—to strain our reach, and in spite of the shadows, to search for moments of illumination. Those who won't grow up have shunned the light. They walk in darkness; blind to truth, stumbling, they must fall.

Some day, in Kierkegaard's picturesque phrase, we will awake to find how dead we have been all along. Why not, then, grow up now, while there is still life to enjoy life!

Songs April 23

Victoria folk singer Murray McAlpine will appear at the 6th Camosun Cub and Scout groups' bonfire at 8 p.m. April 23 in Centennial Union Church hall.

He can never fully appease his handmade, jealous and terrifying deities: the god of hard labor and the god of relaxation. He makes them ends in them-

Social Worker Says:

Blame Society, Not Delinquent

By CHARLES LA VERTU

Society should adjust to the delinquent rather than the delinquent to society, says a Victoria social worker.

Mrs. Mary MacKenzie, a social worker with the Family and Children's Service, said the shortcomings of modern society breed juvenile delinquency. Speaking during a panel discussion at a recent B.C. Association of Social Workers' convention, she said it was no use attempting to correct the ills of society without first finding out root causes. It was at this point that society was to blame.

Out of the discussion came a recommendation that a survey be made to pinpoint the deficiencies of a society that allows juvenile delinquency to spread.

The Victoria Welfare Council report on delinquency was endorsed by the association.

Earlier reports from Vancouver saying the association had endorsed a $100,000 plan for a professional survey of delinquency problems in B.C. were denied by the association's Southern Vancouver Island branch president G. K. Webb.

"Contrary to this report, the assembly adopted a suggestion that the Victoria juvenile delinquency report be used by other

B.C. communities as a model in assessing the problems in their areas," he said.

Indians, Eskimos Ask for Attention

TORONTO (CP)—The Indian-Eskimo Association of Canada has asked Prime Minister Pearson and the provincial premiers to pay more attention to "the serious plight of the Indian and Metis citizens in Canada today." Letters mailed Tuesday to the provincial and federal leaders say that despite the growth of Canadian prosperity, the Indian situation is deteriorating with the steadily declining living and housing standards, an increasing delinquency rate, and a loss of incentive.

Sit-Down in Court Costs Four Months

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 26-year-old drug suspect who twice refused to stand when a magistrate entered court Wednesday was sentenced to four months on two charges of contempt of court.

Bruce Hawkins, bearded self-styled disciple of Zen Buddhism, was warned by Magistrate Douglas Hume that a repetition of his behavior would result in a six-month sentence.

Hawkins is charged with trafficking in marijuana.

When the magistrate entered the courtroom in the morning, Hawkins refused to stand and was warned that if he did it again he would be cited for contempt.

REFUSED TWICE

He refused to stand when the magistrate entered the court after mid-morning recess and was cited and sentenced to one month.

Asked to explain his behavior, he replied: "I only respect people I know. . . . Why should I respect people I don't know?"

"You're intelligent enough to know better," replied the magistrate.

After the noon adjournment, Hawkins again refused to stand and was given three additional months.

China Moves Half Its Jets

MADRAS, India (AP)—The Communist Chinese have shifted at least half their air force planes from Tibet to unknown destinations during the last fortnight, the Madras English daily reports. The paper's Gangtok correspondent, quoting reliable sources, said the Chinese also are believed to have transferred part of their mobile radar and anti aircraft complexes from the Indian border.

Mexico Denies Terror Plot

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—The Mexican government Wednesday report published in the daily Galindo Ochoa said, "There are no such prisoners in any state in the republic. The only persons arrested were the 30 taken into custody here in the capital Monday night—all student demonstrators against U.S. policy in South Viet Nam."

There was no national plot, Galindo Ochoa said. "There are no such prisoners in any state in the republic. The only persons arrested were the 30 taken into custody here in the capital Monday night—all student demonstrators against U.S. policy in South Viet Nam."

Daffodil Revue Offers Fun At Playhouse

By BERT BINNY

The 1965 Daffodil Revue, delivering a thoroughly entertaining evening of music, dancing, singing and comedy, packed the McPherson Playhouse Wednesday evening.

There was spontaneous applause, numerous recalls and a general air of relaxation and enjoyment. The pace of the show was unhurried but it kept rolling.

The Fred Usher orchestra, with the maestro also acting as emcee, was the feature item but there were excellent individual numbers as well as organist Reg Stone provided really fine accompaniments and background music as well as a delightful overture.

QUEENS PRESENTED

Singer Terry Cain, a regular with the Fred Usher orchestra, was certainly at her best and did a particularly fine job with the Hawaiian Wedding Song. In the course of this item she gave leis to the Victoria Daffodil Queen and the Queen of the Yukon who were presented at the show.

Dancer Anne Appleby gave lively and attractive displays in the Charleston and Hawaiian numbers.

POPULAR ACTS

Veteran comedian and singer Reg Stiller was enthusiastically received when he was singing a duet with himself, performing on the musical saw, yodelling and otherwise providing entertainment of a very popular sort.

Master magician Carl Henson was applauded for his suave and skilled Fantasy in Blue, in which a great variety of things including four or five live doves appeared and disappeared in quick succession. Assisting in all this legerdemain was Lotie Henson.

"VERSATILE"

Geoff "Versatile" Venables played the violin and the clarinet and even essayed to read poetry, this last in an act entitled Poetry in Motion.

Also featured were Rommie and Roy Hackett, dancer Pam Messer who joined Miss Appleby for Jamaica Farewell and the well-known Meistersingers.

Peter George Heads Club

Peter George was elected president of the Burns Club of Victoria at a recent meeting at Hollywood House.

Other officers elected were: Youngs Stevenson, secretary; Alex Cuthbert, treasurer; K. W. Gordon, bard; Rev. T. H. McAllister, chaplain; Mrs. G. C. Grant, sick visitor; Mrs. W. J. Forrester, pianist; Mrs. A. Cuthbert, librarian; Mrs. P. F. Fairfull, Mrs. M. Early, Mrs. A. Cuthbert, Mrs. D. Scott, Harold Grant, A. McWilliams, executive committee.

SASKATOON (CP) — A French-speaking group, which hopes to obtain a change in the Saskatchewan School Act, kept its children out of Saskatoon separate schools Wednesday to protest a 60-year-old provincial law which says classroom instruction must be given in English.

The Saskatchewan School Attendance Act provides that parents who refuse to send children between the ages of seven and 16 to school, except for reasons of health or disability, are liable to a fine of $10 a day.

Mr. Bourgault said: "There may well be penalties for taking children out of school but we will have to risk it. School officials don't realize how urgent the problem is."

He said most English-speaking people in Saskatchewan do not realize that Section 203 of the school act names English as the sole language for school instruction. He added that this is frustrating parents' aim to have their children taught part of the time in French.

Education Minister George Trapp said he had no protest from the group of Saskatoon parents. No representation had been made to his department.

WILL STAY OUT

Ernest Bourgault, spokesman for the group, said the walkout would remain in force until the legislature amends the act.

Mr. Bourgault, 45-year-old manager of an electronics firm, said 45 children from 15 families were absent.

Inquest Raps Firms

VANCOUVER (CP) — A coroner's jury Tuesday criticized three companies in the death of a man fatally injured when he rode a falling roof beam 40 feet to the ground.

The jury, made up of engineers, contractors and other members of the building industry said that the beam collapsed because of lack of adequate bracing of the roof trusses.

The jury was inquiring into the April 7 death of Arnold King, who was injured when the beam fell at a storage building being built for MacMillan-Bloedel and Powell River Company.

The jury criticized MacMillan-Bloedel, Amfab Ltd. suppliers of the beam who designed the building, and Stoenberg Mill Construction Ltd., erector of the building.

Patients Show Improvement

An elderly Oak Bay man was admitted Wednesday to Royal Jubilee Hospital with suspected rib fractures suffered in a fall in his home.

Condition of 57-year-old H. A. Watson, 2740 Dewdney, was later said to be good.

Also in good condition Wednesday was Mrs. Wyn Lewis, 51, of 1888 Fairfield, admitted Tuesday to St. Joseph's Hospital with injuries suffered in a fall downstairs at the home of a friend.

New Deal In Wheat Rumored

OTTAWA (CP) — A spokesman for Trade Minister Sharp said Wednesday he can neither confirm nor deny a report that a new Canada - Russia wheat deal is now under negotiation.

The Toronto Telegram said Wednesday that a 1000,000,000-bushel sale is being negotiated. At current prices of $1.81 a bushel, the sale would involve about $200,000,000.

The spokesman said only Canada is "in constant contact" with the Russians.

White 'Buy-In' Counters March

BOGALUSA, La. (AP)—Negro pickets, with police standing guard, marched in front of mid-town stores Wednesday — and white racial segregationists countered with a "buy-in," making purchases and waving them at the pickets.

B.C. Man Convicted On U.S. Drug Charge

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — A 26-year-old Vancouver man arrested when $150,000 worth of heroin was found in a plane he flew to California, will be sentenced April 27 in U.S. District Court on a charge of possession of narcotics.

Roy J. Travis was convicted by a jury Tuesday after Judge Sherrill Halbert rejected a defence motion for acquittal on grounds the prosecution failed to show that the defendant rented the plane or that he knew the heroin was in the aircraft.

Travis was accused of flying the heroin into California on Feb. 12 after making stops at Seattle and Medford, Ore.

Highway to Become Four-Lane Freeway

VANCOUVER (CP) — Plans for a four-lane freeway between West Vancouver and Horseshoe Bay call for five miles of the existing Upper Levels Highway to be widened to four lanes from two, it was disclosed Wednesday.

The remaining four miles, between Cypress Park and Horseshoe Bay, will take a new four-lane route following the alignment of the present highway.

ANNOUNCEMENT:

New,
more powerful gasoline produced by Shell—
now on sale in B.C.

SHELL SCIENTISTS have produced a new, more powerful formula for regular grade gasoline. This new gasoline is now being delivered to Shell stations in B.C. You can buy it today.

The new Shell formula is particularly suited to B.C. conditions—where motorists often have more need for extra power from a regular gasoline because of the higher, steeper hills.

If your car's engine was designed for regular gasoline but sometimes suffers from knock, try the new Shell formula. The difference in power is immediately noticeable.

Secret Unveils Surprises

By IAN ARROL

The new Secret entertainment centre opens tonight at 902 Government—above the TCA ticket office—with Don Crawford of San Francisco.

Negro comedian-singer Crawford was the all-time hit of the old Secret, which operated for three years in the basement of the Westholme Hotel.

His act broke attendance records when he appeared last summer.

The plans for the new house by manager Murray McAlpine include movies, art shows, children's afternoon concerts, painting exhibitions and a platform for anyone with a song.

The movies start tonight.

In co-operation with Gary Nixon of the Fox Theatre, Requiem for a Heavyweight, starring Anthony Quinn and Julie Harris, will be shown at 7 p.m., preceding the first of three Don Crawford shows at 9 p.m.

SMOKING PERMITTED

Patrons can buy tickets for both the movie and live show at 7 p.m., or attend one or the other. Price for the movie is $1.75 (75 cents for students) and $1.25 ($1 for students) for the three—each different—Crawford shows.

"A first for Victoria—a theatre in which patrons may smoke," said Mr. McAlpine.

Films will be on every night. Requiem showing Thursday, Friday and Saturday and Days of Wine and Roses with Jack Lemmon and Shirley MacLean.

733 JOHNSON ST., Victoria 388-5191

John Montrose of Middlesex tasted his first Gold Keg Beer.

We're testing Canada's great Gold Keg Beer in England. On Englishmen.

And smiled.

John Montrose, like many a Middlesex man, is normally cool and reserved.

But when he took his first sip of Canada's own Gold Keg Beer his face lit up and he said, "Very good indeed!"

Mr. Montrose is one of scores of Englishmen who are participating in Operation Gold Keg. (We're testing Gold Keg in the pubs of England, to see if it's as good as we think it is.)

Results have been astonishingly favourable.

Englishmen like Gold Keg's clarity and colour. They're especially keen on its mellow, hoppy flavour—because English beers have mellow, hoppy flavour too.

When a man like John Montrose says, "Very good indeed!" this is high praise in England.

Because who in the world knows more about beer than an Englishman?

Labatt's brews Gold Keg Beer from the finest imported Hops and Malts.

day through Saturday of next week. Monday through Thursday the films will be shown at 7 and 9 p.m.

IMPORTED TALENT

The second show on Fridays and Saturdays will be live, imported talent, with Sunday's feature the weekend act, plus a hootenanny.

Hootenanny as defined by Mr. McAlpine means that anyone who wants to perform can do so. "Anyone who wants to sing, play a musical saw—or even give a short speech on some topical issue—has merely to see me before the show."

FORUM FOR CITY

"I'd like to have candidates for the next mayoralty contest appear at the Secret. I'd like to have Major Cuthbert Holmes give a talk on preserving the beauty of Victoria."

Not only might the new Secret be "a forum for the city," but also "a little McPherson Playhouse."

"I would be delighted if, for instance, Bastion Theatre would like to use it for a week to put on a play."

CARTOONS TOO?

"The children could be invited to their own concert with a singer as Karen James on a Saturday or Sunday afternoon. With our projector, we could show a couple of cartoons as well."

Old Theatre School For Actors

MONTREAL (CP) — An old theatre in Montreal's east end is to become a schooling place for new generations of actors and producers.

The Theatre National, located on St. Catherine Street East, was founded 65 years ago.

It served first as a home for live plays, then for burlesque and finally for the movies.

LONG-TERM

The 650-seat hall is to be rented on a long-term basis by the Quebec department of cultural affairs.

It will be used as a workshop for the Conservatoire d'Art Dramatique. The conservatory's students will stage some shows for public display.

The institution has an average of 24 pupils between the ages of 17 and 25.

It graduates about five a year on a three-year course. Until now the students have had only makeshift facilities.

Hearings Set In Five Cities

OTTAWA (CP) — The royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism will hold public hearings in Vancouver, Winnipeg, Quebec, Moncton and Halifax in May and June to discuss briefs from organizations and individuals.

The art work in the new premises is by Jim O'Mara, a talented young Victorian whose work was recently displayed at an exhibit in Ego Interiors on Fort Street.

ROOM FOR 150

Weekend art displays are another McAlpine idea.

The premises, with new sound system and new lighting, will be about three-quarters the size of the old and will accommodate 150 people.

The new Secret will still be the largest Coast coffee house north of San Francisco and the largest in Canada west of Toronto.

Vancouver coffee houses on the same scale have failed, leaving Victoria with the international reputation of being the folk music centre of western Canada and the Northwest.

A basic reason for the move to new premises is the expansion of entertainment in Victoria.

PARKING PROBLEM

"Since McPherson Theatre (and the new liquor store) open close to Westholme Hotel area, parking had become a real problem."

At the new location, a large parking lot is available at the back of the building.

Mr. McAlpine also announced he has "lots of room" for new

"In other words, films that ordinarily wouldn't be brought back to Victoria — or brought ideas and suggestions from the public for continuing development of the new Secret."

IDEAS WELCOME

Suggestions will be welcome for films.

Co-sponsor of the films Mr. Nixon says: "We'd need an audience of about 1,200 for the week to bring in a film at the Fox. We can get by with 250 for the week to make it pay at the Secret.

In for the first time — we can now make available.

"We'll try out different things — maybe a week of all Sellers or Guinness films... maybe a French-Canadian film series... experimental films... shorts... old Chaplin films... Ballad of a Soldier, a non-propaganda film from Russia."

Mr. McAlpine and Mr. Nixon are young people, excited about the prospects for Victoria as an entertainment centre.

First Secret manager, Tony Elise, 24, added his comment on the opening of the new Secret tonight.

BEHIND TIMES

"I've just been in Alberta. There is more entertainment, there are more things to do here in Victoria than in that whole province — apart from the large fairs and rodeos."

"Those who say the sidewalks are rolled up in Victoria at night are 20 years behind the times."

Artist Jim O'Mara shows decor to wife, Jan

If one of these problems is holding up the return of your tax form, maybe we can help you out.

You've lost your form?

Go to your local post office. They have lots of regular T1 forms and they'll be happy to supply you with one.

2.

There's a great big line drawn through the address block?

That's easy to explain. Your Personalized Tax Form went to your old address. The Postal Department crossed it out before they forwarded it to you at your new address. However, there is a space to write in your new address on the label itself (and for brides, your new name).

3.

Something's puzzling you?

Call or visit your District Taxation Office. You'll find it listed in the White Pages of your Telephone Directory under Government of Canada. They'll answer any questions you have.

Your form is all filled out, but you owe us a small sum and you're short of cash?

We understand. Sometimes the fact you've got to pay more tax catches you unprepared. But you can mail your completed tax form anyway by enclosing a postdated cheque for the sum owing as late as April 30th 1965.

You keep forgetting to put it in the mail?

Try this. Tonight, put your completed form in a stamped envelope. With sticky tape, attach envelope to the inside of your front door just about eye level. Tomorrow remove it before you go out and hold it in your hand till you reach the nearest mail box and drop your completed form in.

Now, thank-you for your co-operation. Really.

Weakened Leafs Lose Opener

PORTLAND — Victoria Maple Leafs, playing without injured defencemen Bill Shveitz and Sandy Hucul, were beaten, 5-1, here by Portland Buckaroos in the opening game of the best-of-seven Western Hockey League final last night.

Grim Johnson inspects floods in rain

Rampant Mississippi Spreads New Havoc

CHICAGO (AP)—The swollen Mississippi River, on one of its worst spring rampages, spread havoc across Minnesota lowlands Wednesday and threatened downstream, threatening scores of communities in its southward path.

Melting snow and ice pushed the Mississippi and its tributaries over their banks in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, North Dakota and Illinois.

U.S. weather bureau officials warned the worst of the flooding is yet to come.

AID PROMISED

President Johnson inspected the flood area and another U.S. midwestern tornado-stricken region on foot and by plane and promised that federal disaster relief funds to help the devastated communities would be forthcoming.

After his return to Washington, the president formally proclaimed Indians, Ohio and Michigan as a major disaster area, paving the way for government aid.

The latest reports of the number killed in a series of Palm Sunday tornadoes showed 130.

Tornadoes Hit Again

UPI

Tornadoes touched down Wednesday night in Oklahoma and Texas and thunderstorms ranged over a wide belt from Northern Texas through the Midwest and into the upper Mississippi valley.

A twister ripped through the small community of Perrin, Texas, damaging four homes, wrecking barns and garages and knocking out electrical power.

At Winnipeg, he said, the peak can be expected April 24 at 24 feet. This is only 2 1/4 feet from the top of the elaborate system of dikes protecting the city.

Earlier forecasts had predicted a 18-foot peak. In the disastrous floods of 1950, the Red reached 30 feet.

The river, swollen by runoff from the south, topped 15 feet Wednesday—a rise of three feet since the previous day.

'Today I Killed My Best Friend'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—A 28-year-old woman shot and killed the sister-in-law of Gen. Maxwell Taylor Wednesday in what police described as a "mercy slaying" and then drove to Bethesda, Md., where she took her own life in front of a police station.

Bomb Blows Up Defusers Hurt

SINGAPORE (UPI)—A 25-pound timebomb planted by Indonesian saboteurs exploded Wednesday night in downtown Singapore while army experts were trying to defuse it. Two members of a British Army bomb disposal squad and two police officers were injured by shrapnel.

The bomb shattered windows within a half-mile radius.

DEATH SPURS HUNT

Suspect Spears

KELOWNA (CP)—Police have appealed for public help in tracking down murder suspect Russell Spears.

An RCMP spokesman said Spears, suspected of gunning down Const. N. M. Bruce Saturday morning, could be anywhere in Canada or the northwestern United States.

More men were being moved into the remote Black Canyon area to search for the fugitive and two more tracking dogs were sent in to help one that had been searching since Saturday.

The capital murder warrant held by RCMP for Spears' arrest was sworn out after Const. Bruce died early Wednesday of a bullet through the right lung.

EXPERT WOODSMAN

RCMP described Spears, 59, as about 130 pounds, five-foot-four, with greying brown hair and hazel eyes, a very wrinkled face and bullet scars on both legs.

He is an experienced woodsman, and is believed armed. RCMP said he may have headed south for Washington or Idaho, which he could reach by less mountainous routes, and which have large cities into which he could disappear.

They said they have turned up no sign of Spears since Saturday morning.

Const. Bruce was shot from close range as he approached a clapboard cabin on Power Creek, near Kelowna, in answer to a report that a girl was being detained against her will.

Beverly Charest, 17, burst out of the cabin just after Const. Bruce was shot. She had bullet wounds to her shoulder and jaw.

FLED INTO BUSH

Spears has been the object of an intensive hunt of the Powers Creek and Black Canyon area since Saturday, when a man was seen to flee into the bush after the shooting.

Const. Bruce, a native of Fredrickton, was married and had two small children.

RCMP said the chain of events started when Miss Charest went to the cabin with a man who approached her parents and told them he was looking for a housekeeper.

Const. Bruce went to the cabin with Const. D. E. Jones when they were told the girl was being detained against her will.

CLOSE RANGE

As they approached, Const. Bruce was shot from close range, and Miss Charest was shot as she burst out of the cabin.

Const. Jones took cover behind a tree, then returned to the patrol car to summon reinforcements, and the gunman fled into the woods.

Const. Bruce is the fourth RCMP officer to be shot down on duty in B.C. in three years.

U.K. Foreign Secretary:

U.S. Policy in Viet Nam 'Winning Wider Support'

LONDON (AP)—Michael Stewart, Britain's foreign secretary, said Wednesday United States policy evolving in Viet Nam has been winning ever wider support, even among the doubters.

Speaking to 300 correspondents and diplomats at a foreign press association luncheon, Stewart said a speech by U.S. President Johnson April 7 made clear "the government of the United States is prepared to enter into any discussion in any form at any place and without preconditions."

RESPONSIBILITY

"The responsibility for the next move now does lie on the other (Communist) side in this dispute," he added.

Stewart left the impression he expects the Soviet Union to join Britain—as co-chairmen of the 1954 Indo-Chinese peace settlement—in the quest for peace.

KEENERS IN PRIVATE?

He was asked by a correspondent whether he thought the Russians were keener in private to help end the Viet Nam war than they were willing to admit in public.

"The Russians are not prepared to act with Britain as co-chairmen on certain initiatives," Stewart replied. "But I see hope in the fact that they take the view that the co-chairman system still is valid."

Blast Rips Compound

SAIGON (AP)—An explosion ripped through an ammunition storage area Wednesday night of the U.S. Army 117th Aviation Company compound in Qui Nhon.

There were no casualties, the spokesman said, but six cases of rockets were destroyed and four helicopters, two trucks and one forklift were damaged.

Terrorist Executed

DA NANG (UPI)—A Vietnamese firing squad today executed Viet Cong terrorist Le Dun, 34, who tried to blow up a Da Nang hotel filled with U.S. servicemen on April 24. He was killed in the centre of Da Nang's public soccer stadium.

Night Air Strike Burns Red Convoy

From Reuters-AP

SAIGON (CP)—South Vietnamese fighter bombers carried out the first night air strike against North Viet Nam Wednesday night.

Vietnamese Skyraiders attacked a military convoy north of the border between South and North Viet Nam after the convoy opened fire on them.

LIGHTS OUT

The aircraft then flew northward as far as to Dong Hoi, about 90 miles north of the border. Pilots reported the city's lights had been turned out, apparently as a precaution against the air raids.

The Vietnamese aircraft then returned to base without further military action.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Air Force varied its attacks on the north Wednesday with a propaganda raid in effect calling on the North Vietnamese to overthrow their Communist government.

While 38 planes attacked two radar stations, six others scattered 3,000,000 leaflets blaming

Single Survivor

Airliner Crash Kills 26 in Fog

JERSEY, Channel Islands (Reuters)—A British DC-3 airliner crashed, killing 26 of the 27 persons aboard, as it came in Wednesday night to land in thick fog here.

The lone survivor was a French stewardess, Dominique Sillere, 23, found by rescuers with both legs broken.

SIX BRITONS

The plane carried 23 passengers and a crew of four.

The plane was flying to Jersey from Paris and most of its passengers were believed to be French, Italian, Spanish and Portuguese citizens travelling there for agricultural work. A report from Paris said six Britons also were passengers.

The disaster was the first fatal commercial crash on Jersey in 26 years.

The twin-engine aircraft of Jersey Airlines—an affiliate of British United Airways—hit trees in thick fog and plunged in flames on to a newly-planted field of potatoes about half-a-mile from the St. Helier Airport runway.

RESCUE STEWARDRESS

Two women who ran from nearby houses pulled the stewardess from the wreckage. She was taken to the hospital where she underwent an emergency operation.

Flurry Over Curry

Fingers in Bowl Unfamiliar

LONDON (AP)—Robert Prigg sat back and rubbed his hands in anticipation as the Indian waiter laid a steaming plate of curry and rice before him.

Just as he was about to eat his first forkful, a man walked over from an adjoining table and said:

"Look, mate, you're doing this all wrong. You should take a drink of water first, and then pour the rice on the curry."

"I beg your pardon," said Prigg.

"Yes," said William Fleming, a former sailor in the Royal Navy. "I've served in the East. I know all about curry."

He reached down, stirred up Prigg's curry and rice with his fingers and said:

Prigg picked up his heaping dish and slammed it into Fleming's face.

Blinded with curry and rice, Fleming staggered out of the Taj Mahal restaurant, wiped his face, returned to the restaurant, picked up a chair and hit Prigg over the head.

"My pride wouldn't take it," Fleming told a magistrate Wednesday. "He ate it wrong and then pushed the stuff in my face. Of course, it was all so very unnecessary and I'm sorry about it."

The magistrate fined Fleming £8, 3s (£4.04).

At London's Veeraswamy Indian restaurant, which claims to cook the best curry this side of Suez, a spokesman said:

"We serve the rice first and pour the curry over it. Normally we use spoons and forks, but it's quite normal practice to use fingers. However, they should be your own fingers."

Blitz Success Clears Way

PARKSVILLE — The "outstanding success" of a recent three-hour blitz will allow the Parksville and District Chamber of Commerce to go ahead on three projects, president Ron Thwaites said Wednesday.

He said $3,062 was raised through the canvass of businesses and a $1,300 grant from the village, while the goal was $2,500. This will make it possible for the Chamber to build a boat-launching camp at the community park, beautify the tourist bureau area and continue bureau operation and tourist publicity this summer.

DUNCAN — No one was hurt Wednesday when Margaret Jean Spieker of Duncan steered her car into a Second Street telephone pole in an attempt to avoid endangering other cars on Canada Avenue. She told police she realized on approaching the intersection her car's brakes had failed.

NANAIMO — The annual meeting and election of officers of the Nanaimo and District Education Council has been postponed until after Easter. The date of the meeting will be announced later by president A. W. Gascyne.

Boathouses Boat Lost in Fire

HILLIER — A pleasure boat, two boathouses and a workshop were destroyed Wednesday afternoon in a fire of unknown origin at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Brand.

Neighbors and passing motorists joined in the fight to quell the flames but nothing could be saved. There was no estimate of the loss, which was said to be partly insured.

No one was hurt.

PORT ALBERNI — Funeral services have been held in this district for two retired shoe repairmen who died a day apart in West Coast General Hospital. Maurice Lionel Saunders, 67, of 435 Gertrude, a native of England, died April 8 after living in the district for 30 years. John George Shugland, 71, of 910 Marpole, who died the next day, was born in Hilltop, Man., and came to this district four years ago.

LAKE COWICHAN — The annual fund-raising fun fair in Stanley Gordon Elementary School last week was a big financial success, say officials of the Cowichan Lake PTA. Net proceeds have not yet been announced. Conveners were Mrs. Shirley De Bodi and Mrs. Victor Gill.

GANGES — The Salt Spring Island Rod and Gun Club, at its recent annual meeting in the clubhouse on Scott Road, passed a motion to petition the provincial game branch for a two-year closure of the grouse season. The club elected as officers for 1965 Gavin Reynolds, president; Bernard Reynolds, vice-president; Mrs. Ellen Bennett, secretary, and V. L. Jackson, treasurer.

Canoeists Saved From Sea

TOFINO — Opticist residents Walter Williams and his wife are in good condition in hospital after their dugout canoe overturned late Monday one half-mile off Dead Man's Island near here.

They clung to their capsized canoe for some time until two groups of rescuers arrived. Tofino lifeboat engineer Murdo McLeod and Thomas Ford, in a rubber raft, saved Mrs. Williams while her husband was rescued by Tony and Bernard Mickey in their outboard motorboat.

CHEMUNUI — Local resident Mrs. Stella Beggs was treated at Chemainus Hospital for shock and bruises, and then released, following a one-car accident early Wednesday on the Crofton road near Pinson's Corner. Police said her car went out of control and snapped off a telephone pole.

PORT ALBERNI — The RCN training yacht HMCS Oriole, based in Esquimalt, will visit here April 24. Three or four of the 24 sea cadets on the training cruise are members of the Alberni corps.

CAMPBELL RIVER — The May Day celebration will be held May 22 this year and will include a big parade, queen coronation, sports and royal ball. Raymond Grigg has consented to act as master of ceremonies for the day and committee officers include Mrs. Frances Duncan, chairman; Mrs. A. J. Saelt, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Jessie Knudson, director.

COBBLE HILL — Members of the Catholic Women's League in Cobble Hill, Shawnigan Lake and Mill Bay plan to hold their second annual strawberry supper at the home of Mrs. P. A. O. Leask on Kilmalu Road in Mill Bay in June. The league changed its annual strawberry tea to an evening affair last year.

UCHELET — Mrs. Douglas Robson has been elected president for 1965 of the Uchelet women's auxiliary to the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans. Other officers are Mrs. M. Mitchell and Mrs. Lorne White, vice-presidents; Mrs. Delores Summers, secretary; Mrs. Margaret Heath, treasurer, and Mrs. G. Fitzpatrick, sergeant-at-arms.

PARKSVILLE — Thomas Floyd spoke for the 12 Vimy veterans during ceremonies at the recent Vimy Day dinner held by the Mt. Arrowsmith Legion branch and attended by 100 people. Other officials and entertainers included Rev. William Hills, Kenneth Woodford, Frank Swallow, Piper Cpl. Charles Pierce, Gordon Baker, Charles Baker, Dudley Webster, Harold Benson, Victor Davies, Mrs. Prudence Beuselinck, Mrs. Charles Baker, Mrs. Sam Davis and Mrs. George Trandfield.

TOFINO — The Uchelet-Lons Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce has announced its teenage safe driving road-co will be held May 30 at the Tofino airport. The event is open to drivers aged 16 to 20 and winners will go to the provincial final.

PORT ALBERNI — Former civic employee David Jones has been named caretaker of the new fieldhouse at Tenth Avenue Park. The announcement was made by parks and recreation commission chairman Ald. Garret Reynolds.

Conference on Aging Prelude to Toronto

Nanaimo OAP

He's 87
—Can't Resign

NANAIMO—Not only is Joe Sutton, 87, still president of the Old Age Pensioners Association here but he will also be one of its five delegates to a national convention in June.

Mr. Sutton handed in his resignation at a meeting of the association Tuesday. But the membership rejected it, urging him to continue as president until December.

He and four others were chosen to represent Nanaimo at the national old age pensioners' annual convention here June 16 to 18.

Other delegates will be Mrs. Helen Craig, Lamont Ross, David Hoie and William Henn.

Asian Expert To Speak On Viet Nam

PORT ALBERNI—Dr. W. E. Willmott, an assistant professor in anthropology and lecturer in Asian studies at UBC, will discuss the situation in Viet Nam during a public lecture here at 8 p.m. April 22.

His talk in the Rosebank, the pulp-sulphite union building, will be co-sponsored by the Port Alberni, and District Labor Council and the Canadian Committee for Nuclear Disarmament.

Museum Sets Easter Hours

The provincial museum will be closed Good Friday but it will be open to the public on the remaining three days of the Easter holiday week.

Museum hours on Saturday are 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.; and Monday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

NANAIMO—A conference in Parkville next month on the problems of aging is planned as a prelude to a national conference next January. Central Island health unit director Dr. G. H. Bonham said Wednesday.

He said the Union Board of Health "feels now is the time for a full discussion of the health, recreation, social service, housing and economic needs of the elderly."

"There is much discussion of the subject going on in Canada at the present time," he pointed out.

OPEN TO PUBLIC

The conference, announced earlier this week, will take place in the Island Hall Hotel in Parkville May 29 and will be sponsored by the Central Island Union Board of Health. It will be open to the public but attendance will be limited to 150 people.

Dr. Bonham said a national conference on aging will take place in Toronto next January and committees in each province are already studying the question in detail.

MINISTER INVITED

The board and the UBC extension department are arranging for speakers. The report earlier in the week said federal Health Minister LaMarsh would be invited.

Speakers to date include Vancouver architect Ross Ritchie, superintendent Dr. B. F. Bryson of the Escondale mental hospital, Vancouver parks department program organizer Mervyn Ovesen, MP Colin Cameron, Nanaimo pensioners' secretary Mrs. Theresa Murdoch and Prof. Francesca McCubbin of the UBC school of social work.

Postmaster Honored At Ganges

GANGES—All of Salt Spring Island was represented at a recent farewell reception in the Legion hall for A. J. Eaton, who retired last December after 28 years as Ganges postmaster, and his wife.

The affair was arranged by the Island Legion branch and branch president F. W. Kirkham gave Mr. Eaton an engraved silver salver in recognition of his work in the branch since its formation following the First World War.

LONG SERVICE

Ganges businessmen presented a purse, with W. A. Trellford acting as spokesman, and RCMP Const. Fred Rhodes read a letter of commendation from the attorney-general's department for Mr. Eaton's long service as justice of the peace.

Robert Akerman, speaking for the Fulford Athletic Club, presented an engraved ashtray. The Eatons are moving to Kamloops.

Double Offences Bring Dual Term

CHEMAINUS—Westholme resident Oliver Jack, 34, has been sentenced in magistrate's court to a concurrent pair of six-month jail terms for offences at the Red Rooster Cafe.

One was for breaking and entering and theft of some cash at the cafe in February, the other was for a burglary attempt at the same place less than three weeks ago.

They'll Boom Again

If RCMP approve its use, 80-year-old Hiram Gough of 563 Bradley in Nanaimo, who fired Bastion cannon to start Nanaimo's 1902-Victoria Day parade, will fire it again May 24.

Cannon expert Ken Kendall of Boat Harbor has declared cannon safe for Mr. Gough, a native of Nanaimo, to fire and safe for public to watch.—(Agnes Flett)

Gift for Music Man

By MARGARET TREBETT

PORT ALBERNI—A farmer and musician in Manitoba has a new cymbala, thanks to a fisherman in Port Alberni who admired his music two years ago.

A cymbala, also called a dulcimer, is a harp-like instrument with 12 strings which has a history reaching back to the early days of the Roman empire.

Man, impressed Ukrainian-Canadian here during a 1963 visit with the tunes he produced on his battered old cymbala.

Jack Swaluk of 818 Sixth Avenue North, who was born near Grandview and came here in 1934, told Mr. Deyholos in 1963 a new cymbala would be waiting for him when he came back to Port.

Mr. Swaluk has since made two cymbalas. The first won first prize at an Alberni District fair and the second, produced during the past winter, is slightly more elaborate in decoration and finish.

It is this handsome instrument which Mr. Deyholos will take back to Manitoba after he comes here soon to play for a dance in the Port Alberni hall, although it is likely he will use the first cymbala at the dance.

The sound has not yet been tuned, says Mr. Swaluk, since tuning is an 11-hour job.

Mr. Deyholos learned to play the cymbala as a youngster and, with a brother and friends, makes up an orchestra in great demand in his area.

Alberni Valley musicians will help him form an orchestra for the forthcoming dance here.

To End Isolation

Highway Needed

PORT ALBERNI—Nowhere else in B.C. are people living in such isolated conditions as the more than 8,000 residents of Vancouver Island north of Kelsey Bay.

That statement was made Tuesday night in a resolution passed by the annual meeting of the Comox-Alberni federal NDP association in the longshoremen's hall here, a meeting attended by riding MP Tom Barnett.

QUICK START

The resolution urged an immediate start on construction of a public highway to Port Hardy from Kelsey Bay, along with proper access to centres of population on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

It said the people in the area above Kelsey Bay, which covers half of the Island, "suffer both economically and socially" because of lack of public access by land.

FEDERAL AID

Mr. Barnett said Premier Bennett has asked Ottawa for 50 per cent of the cost of building 220 miles of road to Port Hardy, with the idea of splitting the Trans-Canada Highway at Nanaimo.

He indicated B.C. might get the federal aid if it reimbursed Ottawa for federal funds spent on the Nanaimo-Victoria section of the highway.

PEACE FIRST

The meeting also supported the stand of federal leader T. C. Douglas on Viet Nam with a resolution which said "peace and economic development are more important than victory for either side."

Re-elected by acclamation as association officers were Bud Handley, president; Alex Hyde, first vice-president; and Colin Wilson, secretary-treasurer.

Tofino Ratepayers Reject Sewer Plan

TOFINO—Ratepayers Wednesday voted against a proposal to build the first sewage system in this village.

The vote on a $118,000 money bylaw to build the system was 49 in favor and 51 against, where a 60 per cent majority was needed for passage. The turnout was 63 per cent of the 161 eligible voters.

Port Park

Donation Of Land Requested

PORT ALBERNI—A cement company is being asked to donate about two acres of land for an extension of Rogers Creek Park, parks and recreation commission chairman Ald. Garnet Reynolds has announced.

He said Ocean Cement is being asked to give property on the south bank of the creek.

He said the area would tie in with park development on the Alberni side and would be a natural extension of the park, but is unsuitable for industrial purposes.

REASSESSMENT

In other civic news, assessor Joseph Ruissen has announced steady progress in the reassessment of residential improvements to bring all such figures to an even level.

He said taxable land values increased by $1,064,957 last year, to $4,225,902, while improvement values rose by $5,267,781 to a total of $73,261,633.

PERIODIC STUDIES

Mr. Ruissen said periodic studies through the year were made to determine the level of land assessments and slight increases were made in two sub-districts.

New and previously incomplete structures were inspected and placed on the roll.

Leaving District

Chase River Losing Member on Board

NANAIMO—Chase River rural school board representative W. R. Baron has resigned because he will be moving out of the school district, board officials announced Wednesday.

There was no word on his successor. The other rural representative to the school board from the area is Mrs. Theo Lang.

PLANS ADVANCE

The officials also said Nanaimo architect Fritz Schulze is going ahead with plans for the three-room Forest Park elementary school which will be situated in the Forest Park subdivision near Northfield.

His plans must be approved by the provincial education department before construction can begin.

The board officials indicated the school may be ready for occupancy by school opening in September.

Dangerous Driving

Westholme Youth Fined, Suspended

LADYSMITH—A high-speed chase through the residential area Wednesday morning ended in magistrate's court later in the day for Westholme resident Timothy Terence Frank Barnes, 15.

He pleaded guilty to a charge of dangerous driving. Magistrate R. S. Wood fined him $50 and suspended his driving licence for six months.

Police said Barnes disregarded a school zone and posted speed limits of 20, 30, 35 and 50 miles an hour during the 1½-mile chase which ended when he stopped his car in the Davis Road subdivision.

Campbell River

Free Dental Care Qualified Success

CAMPBELL RIVER—A six-month trial of a free preventive dental health service for three-year-olds in this area has proved a qualified success, says director Dr. G. A. Gibson of the Upper-Island health unit.

The service was introduced last October in Campbell River and six other B.C. communities by the B.C. Dental Association and local dentists. The provincial health department paid the costs.

FREE SERVICE

Further examinations may be carried out at the parents' expense if they wish.

Hospital Bylaw Advanced

NORTH COWICHAN—A brief special meeting of North Cowichan municipal council Wednesday afternoon gave final reading to the bylaw putting up $182,000 as the municipality's share of the $600,000 extra Cowichan district hospital cost.

North Cowichan and city taxpayers last Saturday passed by large margins money bylaws providing their shares. Eskalish and Cowichan Lake earlier increased hospital mill rates for the rest of the money.

The money had to be guaranteed by April 28 as a tender could be accepted, avoiding higher costs later.

Other delegates will be Mrs. Helen Craig, Lamont Ross, David Hosie and William Henn.

Asian Expert To Speak On Viet Nam

PORT ALBERNI—Dr. W. E. Willmott, an assistant professor in anthropology and lecturer in Asian studies at UBC, will discuss the situation in Viet Nam during a public lecture here at 8 p.m. April 22.

His talk in the Rosebank, the pulp-sulphite union building, will be co-sponsored by the Port Alberni and District Labor Council and the Canadian Committee for Nuclear Disarmament.

Museum Sets Easter Hours

The provincial museum will be closed Good Friday but it will be open to the public on the remaining three days of the Easter holiday weekend.

Museum hours on Saturday are 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.; and Monday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

NANAIMO—A conference in Parkville next month on the problems of aging is planned as a prelude to a national conference next January, Central Island health unit director Dr. G. H. Bonham said Wednesday.

He said the Union Board of Health "feels now is the time for a full discussion of the health, recreation, social service, housing and economic needs of the elderly."

"There is much discussion of the subject going on in Canada at the present time," he pointed out.

OPEN TO PUBLIC

The conference, announced earlier this week, will take place in the Island Hall Hotel in Parkville May 29 and will be sponsored by the Central Island Union Board of Health. It will be open to the public but attendance will be limited to 150 people.

Dr. Bonham said a national conference on aging will take place in Toronto next January and committees in each province are already studying the question in detail.

MINISTER INVITED

The board and the UBC extension department are arranging for speakers. The report earlier in the week said federal Health Minister LaMarsh would be invited.

Speakers to date include Vancouver architect Ross Ritchie, superintendent Dr. B. F. Bryson of the Essondale mental hospital, Vancouver parks department program organizer Mervyn Owen, MP Colin Cameron, Nanaimo pensioners' secretary Mrs. Theresa Murdoch and Prof. Frances McCubbin of the UBC school of social work.

Postmaster Honored At Ganges

GANGES—All of Salt Spring Island was represented at a recent farewell reception in the Legion hall for A. J. Eaton, who retired last December after 20 years as Ganges postmaster, and his wife.

The affair was arranged by the Island Legion branch and branch president F. W. Kirkham gave Mr. Eaton an engraved silver salver in recognition of his work in the branch since its formation following the First World War.

LONG SERVICE

Ganges businessmen presented a purse, with W. A. Treford acting as spokesman, and RCMP Const. Fred Rhodes read a letter of commendation from the attorney-general's department for Mr. Eaton's long service as justice of the peace.

Robert Aberman, speaking for the Fulford Athletic Club, presented an engraved ashtray.

The Eatons are moving to Kamloops.

Welsh Festival

A bus has been chartered by the Victoria Welsh Society to go to the annual Welsh Society singing festival in Vancouver May 2. Seats may be reserved at 382-3851.

Where Sea Barged In

World's biggest log barge, which ran onto west Island coast reef last week, is inspected by Yarrow's employees after she entered Esquimalt graving dock for repairs. Straits Towing Ltd.'s 300-foot self-loading Strain Logger has capacity of 10,000 tons of logs.—(Jim Ryan)

Double Offences Bring Dual Term

CHEMAINUS—Westholme resident Oliver Jack, 34, has been sentenced in magistrate's court to a concurrent pair of six-month jail terms for offences at the Red Rooster Cafe.

One was for breaking and entering and theft of some cash at the cafe in February, the other was for a burglary attempt at the same place less than three weeks ago.

They'll Boom Again

If RCMP approve its use, 80-year-old Hiram Gough of 563 Bradley in Nanaimo, who fired Bastion cannon to start Nanaimo's 1902 Victoria Day parade, will fire it again May 24.

Cannon expert Ken Kendall of Boat Harbor has declared cannon safe for Mr. Gough, a native of Nanaimo, to fire and safe for public to watch.—(Agnes Flett)

Gift for Music Man

By MARGARET TREBETT
PORT ALBERNI—A farmer and musician in Manitoba has a new cymbola, thanks to a fisherman in Port Alberni who admired his music two years ago.

A cymbola, also called a dulcimer, is a harp-like instrument with 132 strings which has a history reaching back to the early days of the Roman empire.

Ted Deyholos of Grandview,

Man., impressed Ukrainian-Canadians here during a 1963 visit with the tunes he produced on his battered old cymbola.

Jack Swaluk of 818 Sixth Avenue North, who was born near Grandview and came here in 1924, told Mr. Deyholos in 1963 a new cymbola would be waiting for him when he came back to Port.

Mr. Swaluk has since made two cymbolas. The first won first prize at an Alberni District fall fair and the second, produced during the past winter, is slightly more elaborate in decoration and finish.

It is this handsome instrument which Mr. Deyholos will take back to Manitoba after he comes here soon to play for a dance in the Port Legion hall, although it is likely he will use the first cymbola at the dance.

The second has not yet been tuned, says Mr. Swaluk, since tuning is an 11-hour job.

Mr. Deyholos learned to play the cymbola as a youngster and, with a brother and friends, makes up an orchestra in great demand in his area.

Alberni Valley musicians will help him form an orchestra for the forthcoming dance here.

To End Isolation

Highway Needed

PORT ALBERNI—Nowhere else in B.C. are people living in such isolated conditions as the more than 8,000 residents of Vancouver Island north of Kelsey Bay.

That statement was made Tuesday night in a resolution passed by the annual meeting of the Comox-Alberni federal NDP association in the longshoremen's hall here, a meeting attended by riding MP Tom Barnett.

QUICK START

The resolution urged an immediate start on construction of a public highway to Port Hardy from Kelsey Bay, along with proper access to centres of population on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

It said the people in the area above Kelsey Bay, which covers half of the island, "suffer both economically and socially" because of lack of public access by land.

FEDERAL AID

Mr. Barnett said Premier Bennett has asked Ottawa for 50 per cent of the cost of building 220 miles of road to Port Hardy, with the idea of splitting the Trans-Canada Highway at Nanaimo.

He indicated B.C. might get the federal aid if it reimbursed Ottawa for federal funds spent on the Nanaimo-Victoria section of the highway.

PEACE FIRST

The meeting also supported the stand of federal leader T. C. Douglas on Viet Nam with a resolution which said "peace and economic development are more important than victory for either side."

Re-elected by acclamation as association officers were Bud Handley, president; Alex Hyde, first vice-president, and Colin Wilson, secretary-treasurer.

Tofino Ratepayers Reject Sewer Plan

The vote on a $118,000 money bylaw to build the system was 49 in favor and 51 against, where a 60 per cent majority was needed for passage. The turnout was 62 per cent of the 161 eligible voters.

Port Park

Donation Of Land Requested

PORT ALBERNI—A cement company is being asked to donate about two acres of land for an extension of Rogers Creek Park, parks and recreation commission chairman Ald. Garnet Reynolds has announced.

He said Ocean Cement is being asked to give property on the south bank of the creek.

He said the area would tie in with park development on the Alberni side and would be a natural extension of the park, but is unsuitable for industrial purposes.

REASSESSMENT

In other civic news, assessor Joseph Ruissen has announced steady progress in the reassessment of residential improvements to bring all such figures to an even level.

He said taxable land values increased by $1,664,957 last year, to $4,225,802, while improvement values rose by $5,267,781 to a total of $73,261,633.

PERIODIC STUDIES

Mr. Ruissen said periodic studies through the year were made to determine the level of land assessments and slight increases were made in two sub-districts.

New and previously incomplete structures were inspected and placed on the roll.

Chase River Losing Member on Board

NANAIMO—Chase River rural school board representative W. R. Baron has resigned because he will be moving out of the school district, board officials announced Wednesday.

There was no word on his successor. The other rural representative to the school board from the area is Mrs. Theo Lang.

PLANS ADVANCE

The officials also said Nanaimo architect Fritz Schulze is going ahead with plans for the three-room Forest Park elementary school which will be situated in the Forest Park subdivision near Northfield.

His plans must be approved by the provincial education department before construction can begin. The board officials indicated the school may be ready for occupancy by school opening in September.

Dangerous Driving

Westholme Youth Fined, Suspended

LADYSMITH—A high-speed chase through the residential area Wednesday morning ended in magistrate's court later in the day for Westholme resident Timothy Terence Frank Barnes, 18.

He pleaded guilty to a charge of dangerous driving. Magistrate R. S. Wood fined him $50 and suspended his driving licence for six months.

Police said Barnes disregarded a school zone and posted speed limits of 20, 30, 35 and 50 miles an hour during the 1½-mile chase which ended when he stopped his car in the Davis Road subdivision.

Campbell River

Free Dental Care Qualified Success

CAMPBELL RIVER—A six-month trial of a free preventive dental health service for three-year-olds in this area has proved a qualified success, says

director Dr. G. A. Gibson of the Upper-Island health unit.

The service was introduced last October in Campbell River and six other B.C. communities by the B.C. Dental Association and local dentists. The provincial health department paid the costs.

FREE SERVICE

A birthday card is sent to every child in the district on his third birthday, entitling him to comprehensive dental service at no expense to the parents. The family dentist provides the exam and counselling.

Further examinations may be carried out at the parents' expense if they wish.

However, said Dr. Gibson, fewer than half of the parents have made appointments with their family dentists to date.

The parents were reminded the card is no longer valid after the child reaches his fourth birthday.

Hospital Bylaw Advanced

NORTH COWICHAN—A brief special meeting of North Cowichan municipal council Wednesday afternoon gave final reading to the bylaw putting up $192,900 as the municipality's share of the $600,000 extra Cowichan district hospital cost.

North Cowichan and city taxpayers last Saturday passed bylaw providing their shares. Kokalah and Cowichan Lake earlier increased hospital mill rates for the rest of the money.

The money had to be guaranteed by April 30 so a tender could be accepted, avoiding higher costs later.

Death Spurs Search

KELOWNA (CP)—Police have appealed for public help in tracking down murder suspect Russell Spears. An RCMP spokesman said Spears, suspected of gunning down Const. N. M. Bruce Saturday morning, could be anywhere in Canada or the northwestern United States.

More men were being moved into the remote Black Canyon area to search for the fugitive and two more tracking dogs were sent in to help one that had been searching since Saturday.

The capital murder warrant held by RCMP for Spears' arrest was sworn out after Const. Bruce died early Wednesday of a bullet through the right lung.

RCMP described Spears, 38, as about 130 pounds, five-foot-four, with graying brown hair and hazel eyes, a very wrinkled face and bullet scars on both legs.

He is an experienced woodsman, and is believed armed. RCMP said he may have headed south for Washington or Idaho, which he could reach by less mountainous routes, and which have large cities into which he could disappear.

Const. Bruce, 36, was shot from close range as he approached a clipboard cabin on Power Creek, near Kelowna, in answer to a report that a girl was being detained against her will.

Beverly Charest, 17, burst out of the cabin just after Const. Bruce was shot. She had bullet wounds to her shoulder and jaw. Const. Bruce, a native of Fredericton, was married and had two small children.

U.K. Foreign Secretary:

U.S. Policy in Viet Nam 'Winning Wider Support'

LONDON (AP)—Michael Stewart, Britain's foreign secretary, said Wednesday United States policy evolving in Viet Nam has been winning ever wider support, even among the doubters.

Speaking to 300 correspondents and diplomats at a foreign press association luncheon, Stewart said a speech by U.S. President Johnson April 7 made clear "the government of the United States is prepared to enter into any discussion in any form at any place and without preconditions."

Stewart left the impression he expects the Soviet Union to join Britain—as co-chairmen of the 1954 Indo-Chinese peace settlement—in the quest for peace.

He was asked by a correspondent whether he thought the Russians were keener in private to help end the Viet Nam war than they were willing to admit in public.

"The Russians are not prepared to act with Britain as co-chairmen on certain initiatives," Stewart replied. "But I see hope in the fact that they take the view that the co-chairman system still is valid."

Blast Rips Compound

SAIGON (AP)—An explosion ripped through an ammunition storage area Wednesday night at the U.S. Army 117th Aviation Company compound in Qui Nhon.

There were no casualties, the spokesman said, but six cases of rockets were destroyed and four helicopters, two trucks and one car were damaged.

Terrorist Executed

DA NANG (UPI)—A Vietnamese firing squad today executed Viet Cong terrorist Le Don, 34, who tried to blow up a Da Nang hotel filled with U.S. servicemen on April 31. He was killed in the centre of Da Nang's public soccer stadium.

North Viet Nam

Night Air Strike

Burns Red Convoy

From Reuters-AP

SAIGON (CP)—South Vietnamese fighter bombers carried out the first night air strike against North Viet Nam Wednesday night.

Vietnamese Skyraiders attacked a military convoy north of the border between South and North Viet Nam after the convoy opened fire on them.

LIGHTS OUT

The aircraft then flew northward as far as Dong Hoi, about 50 miles north of the border. Pilots reported the city's lights had been turned out, apparently as a precaution against the air raid.

The Vietnamese aircraft then returned to base without further military action.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Air Force varied its attacks on the north Wednesday with a propaganda raid in effect calling on the North Vietnamese to overthrow their Communist government.

While 30 planes attacked two radar stations, six others scattered 2,000,000 leaflets blaming

Worst Sill to Come

Rampant Mississippi Spreads New Havoc

CHICAGO (CP)—The swollen Mississippi River, on one of its worst spring rampages, spread havoc across Minnesota lowlands Wednesday and threatened downstream, threatening scores of communities in its southward path.

Melting snow and ice pushed the flood area and another U.S.

midwestern tornado-stricken region on foot and by plane and promised that federal disaster relief funds to help the devastated communities would be forthcoming.

After his return to Washington, the president formally proclaimed Indiana, Ohio and Michigan major disaster areas, paving the way for government aid.

The latest reports of the number killed in a series of Palm Sunday tornadoes showed 130.

Red River Threatens Southern Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Red River continued to edge higher Wednesday and some flooding appeared certain along its banks in Southern Manitoba.

The provincial flood control committee was meeting in an effort to determine how wide an area may be affected.

Agriculture Minister George Hutton gave the legitimate revised estimates indicating a crest can be expected at Emerson, on the North Dakota border, April 22, and at Morris 30 miles north, the following day.

In both places, he said, predictions are the Red will top its banks by five feet.

At Winnipeg, he said, the peak can be expected April 24 at 24 feet. This is only 2½ feet from the top of the elaborate system of dikes protecting the city.

Earlier forecasts had predicted a 19-foot peak. In the disastrous floods of 1950, the Red reached 30 feet.

The river, swollen by runoff from the south, topped 15 feet Wednesday—a rise of three feet since the previous day.

Tornadoes Hit Again

'Today I Killed My Best Friend'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—A 25-year-old woman shot and killed the sister-in-law of Gen. Maxwell Taylor Wednesday in what police described as a "mercy slaying" and then drove to Bethesda, Md., where she took her own life in front of a police station.

The slain woman was Mary Hipper of Bethesda, 61-year-old sister of Mrs. Lydia Gardner Hipper Taylor, wife of the U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam.

She was shot to death in her room at a nursing home in historic Germantown following a fight with her slayer through the springtime countryside.

Her "best friend," Mrs. Dorothy Butts of Bethesda, jammed what appeared to be the pistol used to kill the woman into her handbag and fled the home. She dashed across a terrace to a

Bomb Blows Up Defusers Hurt

SINGAPORE (UPI)—A 25-pound timebomb planted by Indonesian saboteurs exploded Wednesday night in downtown Singapore while army experts were trying to defuse it. Two members of a British Army bomb disposal squad and two police officers were injured by shrapnel.

The blast shattered windows within a half-mile radius.

Airliner Crash Kills 26 in Fog

JERSEY, Channel Islands (Reuters)—A British DC3 airliner crashed, killing 26 of the 27 persons aboard, as it came in Wednesday night to land in thick fog here.

The lone survivor was a French stewardess, Dominique Silliere, 23, found by rescuers with both legs broken.

The plane carried 23 passengers and a crew of four.

The plane was flying to Jersey from Paris and most of its passengers were believed to be French, Italian, Spanish and Portuguese citizens travelling there for agricultural work. A report from Paris said six Britons also were passengers.

Flurry Over Curry

Fingers in Bowl Unfamiliar

LONDON (AP)—Robert Prigg sat back and rubbed his hands in anticipation as the Indian waiter laid a steaming plate of curry and rice before him.

Just as he was about to eat his first forkful, a man walked over from an adjoining table and said:

"Look, mate, you're doing this all wrong. You should take a drink of water first, and then pour the rice on the curry."

"I beg your pardon," said Prigg.

"Yes," said William Fleming, a former sailor in the Royal Navy. "I've served in the East. I know all about curry."

He reached down, stirred up Prigg's curry, and rice with his fingers and said: "Now drink your water and go ahead."

Prigg picked up his heaping dish and slammed it into Fleming's face.

Blinded with curry and rice, Fleming staggered out of the Taj Mahal restaurant, wiped his face, returned to the restaurant, picked up a chair and hit Prigg over the head.

"My pride wouldn't take it," Fleming told a magistrate Wednesday. "He ate it wrong and then pushed the stuff in my face. Of course, it was all so very unnecessary and I'm sorry about it."

The magistrate fined Fleming £8, 3s (£24.04).

At London's Veeraswamy Indian restaurant, which claims to cook the best curry this side of Suez, a spokesman said:

"We serve the rice first and pour the curry over it. Normally we use spoons and forks, but it's quite normal practice to use fingers. However, they should be your own fingers."
